APPEAL IS MADE BY NEW CLAIMANT

Jacksonville Lawyers for
Byrne Auryanson File
Petition, for Time To Make Investigation.

Jasper, Fla., July 15.—(AP)—Dr. David S. Kidd-Byrne, evangelist, of Toronto, Canada, filed a petition in Hamilton county court today asking that he be named the sole heir to the estate of William George Byrne, now said to be valued at $70,000,000. At the same time, a firm of Jacksonville attorneys filed for Ann Byrne Auryanson, of New York, a petition for time to investigate and file claim to the estate. Judge K. B. Johnson, of Hamilton county court, issued an interlocutory order setting August 2 as the day when final order will be made.

Kidd-Byrne claims that the estate was bequeathed to him as a gift of gratitude by the father of a woman he "saved" from the Chicago underworld.

Will Made in 1908.
The will, made by William George Byrne on June 27, 1908, is on file in probate office here. Kidd-Byrne, after several years of investigation, has submitted a list of the securities and properties which he claims are rightfully his through provisions of the Byrne will. The tabulation, a portion of which was compiled from the will, shows the holdings to be scattered throughout the world.

Kidd-Byrne declares that while living at his home in Bewdley, Ontario, Canada, he heard "voices" calling him to Chicago. He went to Chicago and found one Lucy Byrne, whom he ascertained was the daughter of the woman he had saved. Shortly afterwards the woman became ill with tuberculosis and was taken by her family to White Sulphur Springs, Fla., where she died July 6, 1908.

Of the family's residence at White Sulphur Springs and the death of the woman, actual records exist. It was shortly after her death that William George Byrne, the father, made the will which is now on file here.

"Temple" Is Established.
The will provided that a large sum was to be given to Kidd-Byrne for the purpose of establishing in Chicago or Toronto the "Star Temple of Hope." Aside from the fund for the church Kidd-Byrne was left a substantial fortune for his personal use.

"It is my will that this donation to Mr. Kidd is given by me as a gratification gift for reclaiming my daughter, Lucy Byrne, after 12 years of a life of shame," the provision of the will reads.

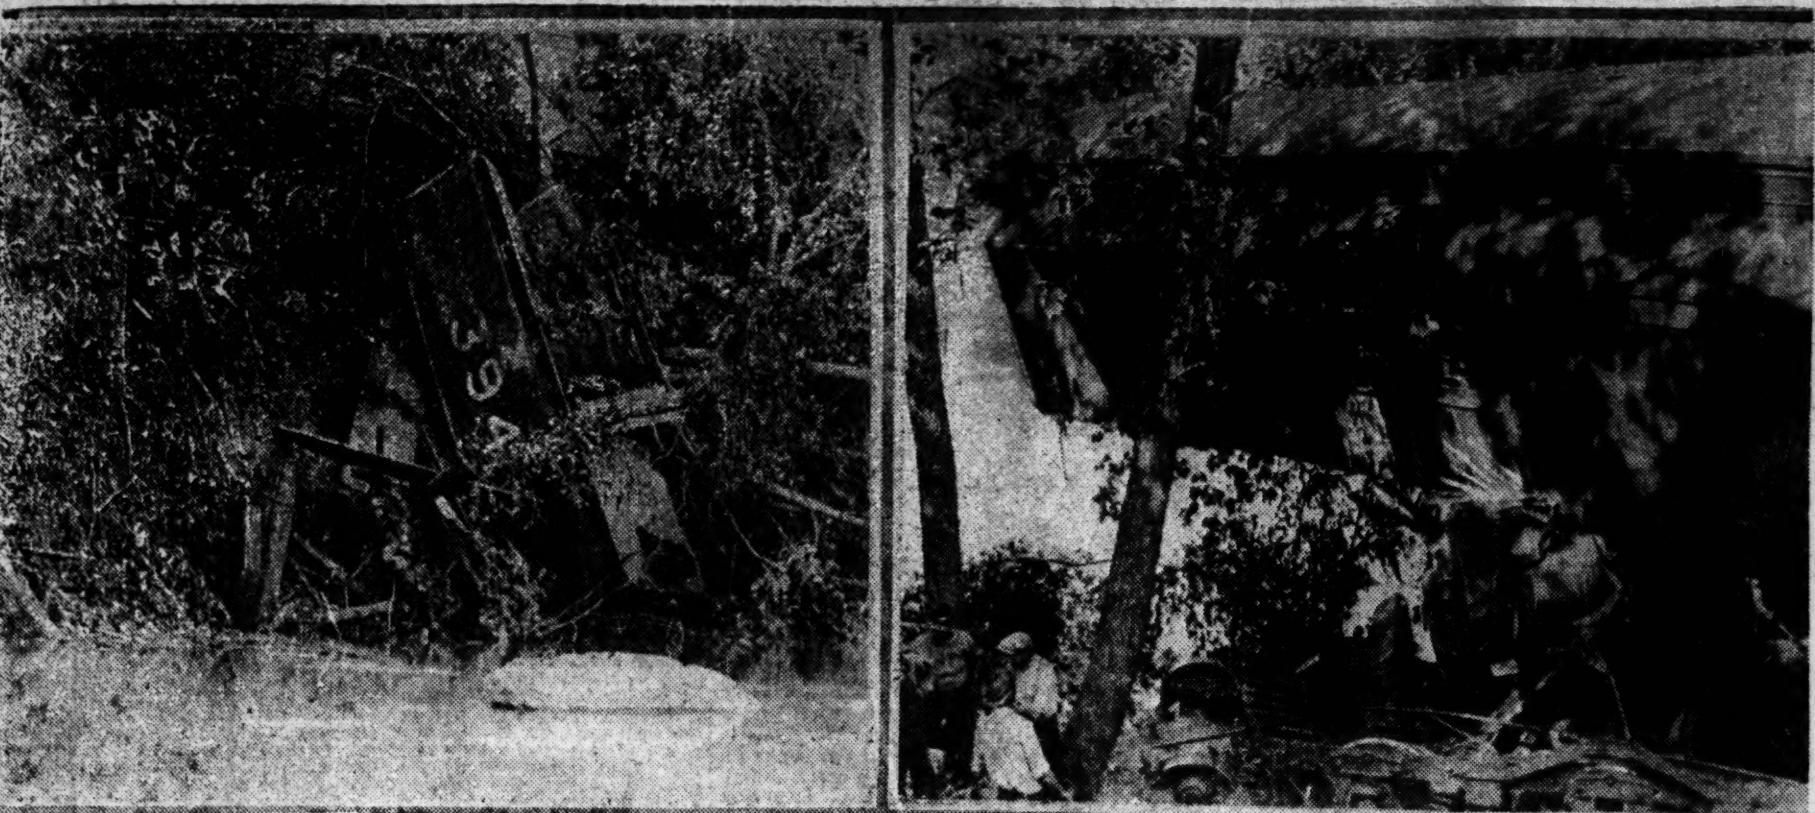

Kidd-Byrne acquired the hyped-up name through another provision of the will which specified that the evangelist assume the name of his benefactor and made reference to his legal adoption as a son of William George Byrne.

Buried Abroad.
After the death of Lucy Byrne, the family carried the body to Australia for burial, Kidd-Byrne declares, and the father died on route. The mother and the only son were drowned after their return, he says, going down with the Empress of Ireland in a steamship collision with the Storstad on the St. Lawrence river in 1914.

Judge B. B. Johnson on June 16, 1921, after Kidd-Byrne testified he had sought every portion of the world for heirs, declared all heirs legally dead with the exception of Kidd-Byrne. Under the law more time had to elapse before the evangelist could seek to have himself declared sole heir and executor. The time limit was definitely set for May 15, 1926, for American heirs and July 15 for foreign claimants.

Volume records have been brought to the court here and certain

TO DIVORCE WIFE IN DETROIT COURT

Bill of Complaint Against Second Wife Locked in Vault and Charges Are Not Made Public.

Detroit, July 15.—(AP)—Sebastian S. Kresge, who as a Tennessee tinware salesman invested $8,000 in a five and 10-cent store business that developed into a great national chain and earned for him a fortune of $100,000,000, has come to the parting of the ways with the second Mrs. Kresge. He is suing the former Mrs. Mercer in circuit court here for divorce.

His bill of complaint has been suppressed, locked in the vaults of the court, and his attorney, Paul W. Voorhies, refuses to say on what grounds Mr. Kresge seeks divorce.

Order Is Issued.
Existence of the suit became known today when a circuit court order was issued for Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, a non-resident, to appear here in answer to the bill of complaint within the next three months. Mrs. Kresge has been living in New York.

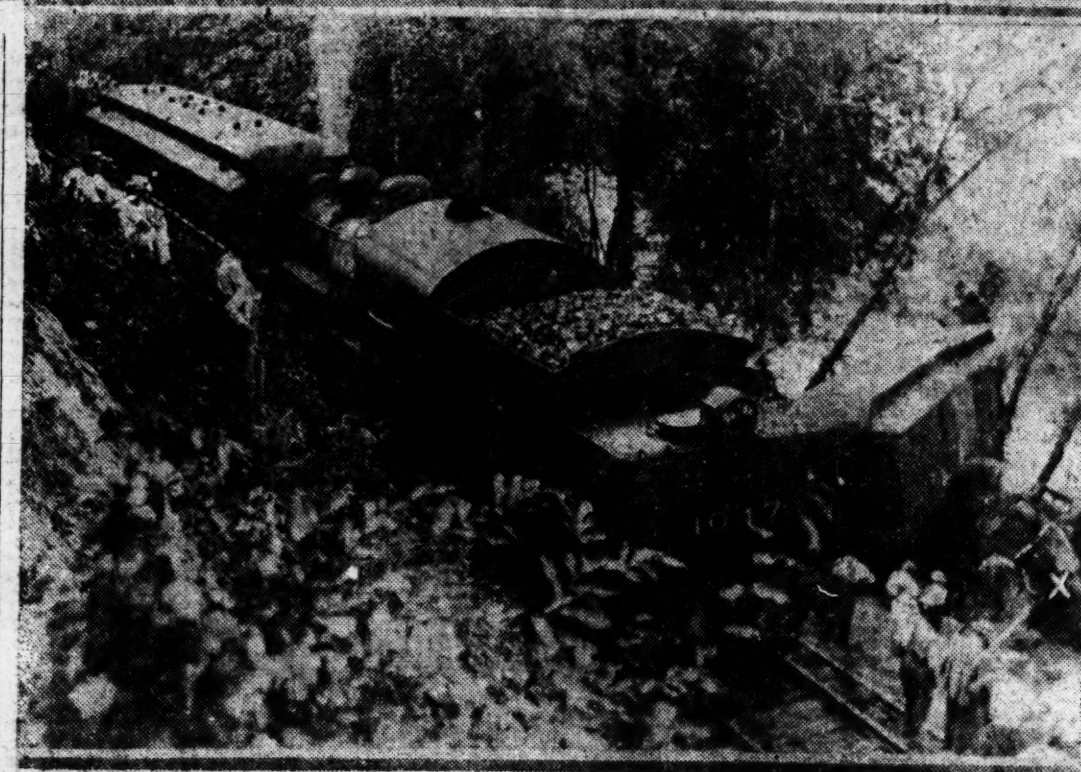

Mrs. Anna Harvey Kresge, to whom the chain store operator was married the same year that he purchased his first store in Tennessee, divorced him in 1923. She since has been living here with her four children. Only one of the children, Ruth, attended the wedding of their father to Doris Mercer in 1924.

Trouble cropped forth soon after the wedding, reaching the courts in New York when Mrs. Kresge pressed a claim for $2,000,000 due her, she said, under a pre-nuptial agreement. Settlement was effected out of court and it appeared for a time that the difficulties had been smoothed away.

Provision was made later for an upward scale of gifts to Mrs. Kresge each year, provided she fulfilled her part as a "dutiful wife."

Destination Unannounced.
Mr. Kresge motored to Detroit last week, but left yesterday for an unannounced destination, his attorney said today.

"I will not make public the bill of complaint, or comment upon it," Voorhies said. "I will say, however, that Mr. and Mrs. Kresge separated in May, 1925, at the time of her suit for divorce filed in New York. There has been no reconciliation and this divorce is not the result of any agreement between them."

Above are views snapped after the locomotive of train No. 4 of the Louisville & Nashville railway plunged down a mountain side four miles north of Canton, Ga., Friday, claiming the life of Engineer D'Armond, of Etowah, Tenn., and shaking up a score of passengers. The body of the fireman is believed beneath the mass of twisted steel. Upper left is a view of the tender on the banks of Etowah river after a fall of 50 feet. Upper right shows baggage car balanced atop the powerful engine that was practically demolished. Lower is a glimpse of the wrecking crew clearing the right of way, the white cross indicating where the body of D'Armond was found.

Defeat of Legislation Laid to President Mellon and Jardine in Oldfield's
Statement.

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Accusing the republican party of violating 1924 campaign pledges, Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee, said today a republican congress had defeated "the only farm bill" favored by the farmers and that "its defeat was directly brought about by the combined opposition" of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon and Jardine.

"The republican party specifically pledged itself," he said in a statement, "to the enactment of measures which would place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industries. This pledge was broken."

"The democratic party pledged itself to stand late by every proper governmental activity progress of the cooperative marketing movement, the establishment of an export marketing corporation, or commission, so that the exportable surplus might not establish the price for the 'sole group.' This is exactly what the farmers are asking."

"The democratic party also pledged itself to adjust the tariff so that the farmer and all others can buy again in a competitive manufacturers' market; to adjust and lower rail and water rates and to develop our waterpower for cheaper fertilizer. These are all things the farmers desire."

"The democratic pledge could not be kept because of the opposition of republican leaders. The democrats stand ready to fulfill this pledge as soon as it is given a democratic congress. What reasonable excuse can any farmer give for failure to aid in the election of a democratic congress?"

Body of Fireman Is Sought at River Bank
Amid Debris of Mountain
Crash.

Canton, Ga., July 15.—(Special).—R. E. D'Armond, engineer of Etowah, Tenn., was killed instantly, the body of W. E. Wylie, fireman, of Emerson, Ga., is believed beneath a mass of twisted wreckage and a score of passengers miraculously escaped death as a result of the derailment of passenger train No. 4, of the Louisville and Nashville Railway shortly after 10 o'clock today on a mountain four miles north of here.

It was reported from the scene of the wreck late tonight that the body of Wylie had been located under the debris, and was within four feet of the water's edge, but that it had not been extricated.

As the engine left the rails couplings connecting the two rear coaches snapped and this is believed to have saved the lives of the passengers. The locomotive and baggage car plunged 50 feet, smashing three huge trees on the bank of the Etowah river, stopping at the water's edge. A mail clerk, J. T. Coker, of College Park, was in the baggage car and escaped with a few bruises about the chest.

After the crash a dozen or more passengers ran to aid D'Armond, who was still sitting at his post—dead. His hand was near the throttle and his body mangled. A vain search was made for Wylie and later the river was dragged.

As the locomotive rounded the sharp curve, it is believed one of its wheels broke and the same agency so powerful on tracks hurried it to destruction. The baggage car fell atop the engine, which is believed to have overturned twice. Traffic on the line was held up all day and it was late in the afternoon before the wrecking crew arrived.

As the engine left the tracks about 100 feet or more the wheels were torn away and as it overturned much earth was displaced and beneath this the body of Wylie. Until heavy cranes lifted up the locomotive, the body could not be recovered, it is said. Railway officials feel certain that Wylie is dead for nothing has been heard of him since the derailment. No one is reported to have seen him. The railroad parallels the Etowah river for several miles north of Canton and it was at a curve and at a point where it is an almost straight line from the railroad to the water

Speaker of House Leaves

Washington, July 15.—(Special).—Speaker "Nick" Longworth, of the house, about whom the presidential race is buzzing, and Bascom Sloop, former secretary of President Coolidge, who garnered the southern republican strength unanimously behind the president at the last national convention, have left for an automobile tour through the south.

The popular speaker of the house and the republican strategist are being credited with paving the way for a Longworth candidacy in 1928 if the president's popularity wanes to such an extent that he drops from the race or is dropped by circumstances.

The two will be in the south for about two months and much can be done during that time. Sloop had the southern republican delegation in his pocket, so to speak, at the last republican convention and delivered them to President Coolidge, for whom he was acting that time as private secretary and general political strategist.

Sloop did not get along well with Chairman Culler, of the republican national committee, and saw Butler assuming the ascendancy in republican affairs with no little chagrin. The Virginia republican politician expected a cabinet post for him; for Coolidge, and did not get it. Finally, he left his desk at the white house just outside the president's door, and though efforts have been made to bring harmony again, Sloop has not come back into the fold.

Apparently, he has decided to tie up with Longworth, taking the same advantage of what appears to be a general

King Albert Is Given Un-

Save Franc.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Paris, July 15.—Two and one-half million government employees will be sacked as an economy measure by one of Joseph Caillaux's projects to save the franc and to reestablish the nation's credit, the finance minister told the cabinet today.

Mr. Caillaux announced his intention to reduce the number of government employees to less than it was before the war.

The biggest house-cleaning will be in the army and navy, where thousands of officers of lower rank, taken on in war time, are still holding jobs. The cessation of all work to be paid for from the budget is another measure, including public utilities, railway extensions, power plants, harbor developments and various other enterprises.

Mr. Caillaux announced that one of the first measures to be effective if parliament grants the dictatorial powers he wants, will be severe restrictions on the consumption of all imported materials—gasoline, rubber, copper, cotton and wheat. Cards are expected to be issued, rationing those entitled to import for manufacture.

The cabinet endorsed Mr. Caillaux's proposals.

Brussels, July 15.—(AP)—King Albert by virtue of an overwhelming majority in the chamber and a unanimous vote in the senate, in which socialist deputies and senators concurred, has become the financial dictator of his own kingdom for six months.

Premier Jasper put the full powers bill, granting the king authority to institute by decree measures to save the franc, through both houses inside of an hour, today.

The official closing figure of the franc today was 211 to the pound sterling and 43.50 to the dollar.

The foreign exchange market will be one of the first features of the present situation to be attended to by the royal dictator. In the future, in order to obtain foreign currency for imports, bill of lading, as well as invoices, must be presented.

The financial commission instituted by the government, which M. Theunis, banker and former premier, is president, met and examined various measures for supporting the franc and for preventing illicit dealing in foreign exchange. These will be submitted to the king for promulgation within a day or two.

The commission also studied the proposition of a group of Dutch bankers desirous of assisting Belgium to redeem the franc, embracing a loan of five million guilders under favorable conditions, and it is likely the offer will be accepted. (A guilder is worth about 40 cents.)

A decree will be issued, providing for the use of bread very similar to that used in war time. The railways, telephones and telegraphs will be turned over to private companies for operation.

King Albert is expected to be a good-natured dictator, and Mr. Theunis and M. Francqui, both prominent financiers, will be the real powers behind the throne.

London, July 15.—(AP)—Brigadier General Edwin C. Andrews, American prohibition enforcement chief, today laid the difficulties of his job before the British authorities and began a series of conferences designed to hinder international rum running.

General Andrews was so pleased with the opening of the discussion that he expressed the opinion that the conferences would be concluded within a week. "We have certainly made a splendid beginning," the general said after leaving the first conference in the foreign office. The British representatives showed a most helpful spirit of cooperation which even exceeded his expectations, the general said.

After being received by Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, General Andrews and his aides sat with British inter-departmental experts who heard the American officials explain their troubles and difficulties in enforcing prohibition. Later the experts were divided into subcommittees which will consider the details of the suggestions made by both sides. These subcommittees will report at a future meeting Saturday.

General Andrews' visit has not caused much of a ruffle among the whisky interests who take the view that the matter is not one of theirs. "We have heard that General Andrews is coming but we haven't the slightest idea as to what he is going to do," a spokesman at the headquarters of the "Whisky Association," which is composed of the largest distillers.

The revival of the American prohibition officials was given space in but few London newspapers and nothing much has been published since.

BANK SITUATION
NOW IMPROVING

Bennett Declares Many Members of Defunct
Chain Solvent; Two Resume Business.

Appointment by the federal district court of Hugh M. Dorsey, former governor, and John K. Otley, chairman of the board of the Fourth National bank of Atlanta, as receivers for the Bankers Trust company, requests from 15 additional Georgia members of the Bankers Trust chain, and five in Florida, that their affairs be taken over by their respective states, together with a statement by T. E. Bennett, state superintendent of banking, that the situation is showing rapid improvement, were developments Thursday.

Mr. Bennett said that closing of 19 additional members of the Bankers Trust chain Thursday was not unexpected, in view of the inability of the financial agent to act for them further. Reports show that many of these banks are solvent, he stated, and he expressed the confident belief that a large proportion would reopen soon.

Two of these banks, Mr. Bennett pointed out, have already resumed business, and others have notified the department that they will be able to continue business.

Mr. Dorsey and Mr. Otley late Thursday were named receivers for the Bankers Trust company by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the north Georgia district federal court. Selection of these men followed a short hearing Thursday morning at which attorneys for the bank, opposed naming of the receivers, Judge Sibley, however, overruled their complaint and said he would make known his selection later in the day.

No concerted move was made to prevent the naming of the receivers, but a formal objection was filed. The Bankers Trust was headed by W. D. Manley, president. The legal firm of Bryan & Middlebrooks represented clients seeking the receivership.

Banks Taken Over.
Georgia banks which were taken over by the department Thursday together with their capitalization and total resources and liabilities, as of December 31, 1925, were as follows:

Taylor County bank, Butler, $15,000 and $224,670.00; Bank of Lenoir, $15,000 and $224,670.00; Bank of Cusseta (co) $15,000 and $174,276.05;

Evangelist Identified as Companion of Ormiston
After Disappearance,
Says State Lawyer.

WOMAN REPORTED SEEN IN ARIZONA

Witnesses Also Tell of
Her Alleged Trip
Through Culver City on Day She Disappeared.

Los Angeles, July 15.—(AP)—Alma Semple McPherson, Angelus temple evangelist, has been identified as the woman who accompanied Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at the temple, when he drove his automobile into a Salinas garage early on the morning of May 20, 11 days after the evangelist had disappeared at Santa Monica. Joe Ryan, deputy district attorney, declared when he appeared as a witness at the close of the county grand jury session late today.

Ryan said that identification of Mrs. McPherson had been made by Dennis Collins, night attendant at the Salinas garage, from photographs shown him by Ryan. The deputy prosecutor volunteered to bring Collins to Los Angeles to give his testimony and to face the evangelist before the jury in an attempt to identify her further.

Ormiston had left his automobile at Salinas on his way to Los Angeles, where he appeared the next day and denied knowledge of any facts in connection with Mrs. McPherson's disappearance, leaving before he could be questioned in detail. In a letter to a police officer here, the radio man later denied that he returned to Salinas for his automobile.

Ormiston was involved in the investigation of the McPherson case immediately following the vanishing of the evangelist when it became known that his wife, prior to sailing for her home in Australia, had threatened to sue for a divorce, citing Ormiston's friendship for the Angelus temple leader.

After Ormiston's car had left Salinas, it was reported to have been traced to San Luis Obispo, where the driver and a woman registered at a hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, later driving south to be accompanied by newspapermen from Santa Barbara, where the driver denied he was Ormiston.

The statement of the district attorney was but one of several sensational developments just prior to the adjournment of the grand jury till Tuesday morning, when it will resume its investigation of Mrs. McPherson's story of being kidnaped from Santa Monica, May 18, to escape 35 days later, when she reappeared at Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico.

Identifies Evangelist.
C. E. Pope, Tucson, Ariz., automobile man, faced the evangelist in the grand jury room and was reported by officials to have been positive in his identification of her as a woman whom he had seen in Agua Prieta with another woman and two men three days before she made her appearance there, telling her story of kidnaping and escape.

A few minutes previously, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Vick, of Culver City, had been equally positive in their identification of Mrs. McPherson as the woman seen by them in an automobile passing through Culver City on the way to Los Angeles and away from Santa Monica at about 3 or 4 p. m. on the day she disappeared. Mrs. Ford Bolts Meeting On Detroit Vice Conditions

OFFICIALS PASSING BUCK, CLAIMS W. C. T. U. LEADER

Detroit, July 13.—Mrs. Henry Ford and Mrs. William Butler, of the W. C. T. U., bolted a meeting of city leaders and city officials called to discuss "Detroit's amazing vice conditions" late today, adding another hectic chapter to the "clean up" campaign here.

Shouting loudly that all city officials from the mayor down "are passing the buck" that law enforcement is ineffectual and that the highest officials are opposed to prohibition at heart, Mrs. Butler left the meeting, Henry Ford's wife with her.

Neither of the women would make a statement regarding what prompted their hasty exit and both declined to comment on the investigation.

The hygiene organization's investigators were paid by the Rockefeller foundation and as soon as they returned was made public Mayor John

Smith called a meeting of city officials and civic leaders to discuss it. The first repercussion was the resignation of Police Commissioner Frank H. Croul. He said he did not care to attend a meeting called to discuss "my alleged shortcomings."

The mayor accepted the resignation and appointed William F. Rutledge as Croul's successor.

Mrs. Ford refused to say whether she shared Mrs. Butler's sentiments regarding the alleged ineffectuality of Mayor Smith and his associates. The fact that she walked out with the W. C. T. U. representative, however, gave the others at the meeting the impression that Mrs. Ford was ready to give up her part in the vice discussions.

When Mayor Smith was elected last year he received the indorsement and support of Henry Ford.

Rockefeller Foundation Plans To Control Malaria

DISEASE TAKES 2,000,000 LIVES EVERY YEAR

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Plans for controlling malaria, which takes a world toll of 2,000,000 lives each year, are outlined in a report of the Rockefeller foundation made public today.

The plans are based on demonstrations made in several states that satisfied the foundation that rural areas as well as towns and cities can rid themselves of the anopheles quadratus, the mosquito believed to be the malaria carrier.

"Malaria is essentially a rural problem, and methods successful in urban control are not applicable to rural control of malaria because of great cost," the report states. "The state health departments undertake to develop and demonstrate satisfactory methods of control of rural malaria. During 1935 thirty-four counties were given financial assistance for malaria control projects. There has been gradually developing a plan for malaria control which offers substantial promise that malaria may be controlled in rural areas without prohibitive cost."

The unit of control in this plan is the county. It requires a full-time county health officer and a sanitary inspector, both having full knowledge of the malaria mosquito.

It also requires a state malariologist, who can orient the work of the county health unit and give advice as to details to be followed in controlling any specific problem.

Yellow fever, except for an outbreak in Brazil in April, virtually was unknown in the western hemisphere last year, the report sets forth. Plans for wiping out this scourge in Nigeria and on the Gold Coast have been formulated by the foundation.

The foundation reports progress in its fight against the hookworm. "In the United States," the report states, "hookworm control is now merely a phase of the expanding activities of governmental rural sanitation. The wearing of shoes was found to be the greatest preventive."

Rural health movements were reported progressing, and financial aid was given to 12 rural health units in 23 states. Aid was given to central supervision of county health work in 128 counties in 15 states.

Following the awarding of 147 were awarded by the foundation for the purpose of promoting education in health work. Of the fellowships awarded, 53 were given Americans and 72 to Europeans.

night as several factions went into caucus to boost their respective candidates for the election of four national executive councilmen. Campaigns already in the field are Charles D. Hayward, Kansas City; Thomas Nugent, Chicago; William B. Thurston, Jr., Baltimore; G. Harold Welton, New Haven, Conn., and W. B. Joyce, Fort Worth, Texas.

Paul B. Detwiler, of Philadelphia, is unopposed to succeed Bruce Baird of New Orleans, as president. The same is true of P. E. Williams, of Los Angeles, for vice president.

Brutal Slaying of Engaged Pair Stirs Macon as Killer Is Sought

Above is shown E. W. Wilson and his fiancée, Miss Hilda Smith, both of Macon, who were shot to death as they sat in a small coupe on a highway near that city. Their bodies were concealed in a creek swamp and remained undiscovered for two days after the murder. Five men are held in the killing.

Chain of Evidence Being Woven Around One Men Held as Actual Slayer, Officers Say.

Macon, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies after three days of investigation of the double murder on the Camp Wheeler road on Saturday night, in which Miss Hilda Smith, 20, and E. W. Wilson, 21, were the victims, have not yet formally preferred a charge of murder against any one.

Five white men are in jail in connection with the case and the deputies said tonight that a chain of evidence is being woven around one of the men as the actual slayer, while they believed that one of the others was an accessory.

Conflicting stories have been told by the men under arrest, it was stated, and in checking up, admissions have been made by at least two of them that their first statements to the deputies were incorrect.

A shotgun, 16-gauge, same size as was used by the slayer of the couple, was found in the home of A. B. Bond, alias Barnes, one of the five men under arrest, sheriff's deputies today declared.

The scene of the double murder, sheriff's deputies have ascertained, was a liquor transfer point, used by moonshiners and whiskey runners. Therefore, they have centered their investigation around men known to have been in the illicit liquor traffic and were known to be in the area near the scene at the time the killing is supposed to have occurred.

Jealousy may not enter into the case at all, it was stated, and the actual slayer may not have known who was in the automobile when he opened fire. But the fact that the bodies were hauled from the scene, carried across the road distance of half a mile into the swamps, both being thrown from the car, probably was intended to convey the impression that jealousy caused the act, in the opinion of officers.

Bars Davis has admitted that he was in a job with Miss Helen Cobb, daughter of G. L. Cobb, officers say. The sheriff's office announced that it was making headway and was drawing the chain of evidence together around the one suspected of the actual slaying.

Those arrested are Bars Davis, the first man who reported finding the bodies, but who has admitted that he saw the bloodstains on Sunday and didn't say anything until Monday, and who admitted that he saw the bodies Monday morning and did not tell anyone till Monday afternoon; G. L. Cobb, G. C. "Preacher" Bonner, A. B. Bond and J. B. Bonner.

Political Aspirants To Get Bird's Eye View of Situation

Candidates for city and county political posts, political prognosticators and officials over whom the threatening sword of the ballot does not hover, today will get a bird's-eye view of the political horizon from the air as they swoop over the city in planes.

This should be a large measure to eliminate the element of conjecture in forecasts as to the success or probable defeat of aspirants as every section of the city and its multifarious activities can be seen at a glance.

The airplane party, the first official one ever staged in Atlanta, will take place at the Fulton field, where Blevins and A. B. McMullin, well-known local flyers, will pilot the machines as city council members, Fulton commissioners, Mayor Walter A. Sims, and newspapermen act as "official" observers.

While political brooding from midair is barred under the "rules of the party," according to chairman William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the aviation committee of city council, and champion of the city aviation field, it is expected E. N. Ragsdale, Charles M. Ford, majority candidates, will be on hand and will vie as daredevils.

Several councilmanic candidates also are included among those invited to the party. Newspaper writers will get a panoramic sketch of the political situation for use in future press dispatches.

The party will leave the city hall at 3 o'clock and go by automobile to the aviation field, where an informal inspection will precede the flights.

SIX ATLANTANS PASS BAR EXAMS AND TAKE OATH

Six Atlantans, having fulfilled the requirements of the Georgia statutes and successfully passed the bar examination, Wednesday were sworn in by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, in Fulton superior court, and were admitted to the bar upon certificates of proficiency issued by the state board of law examiners.

The new attorneys at law are: P. J. Turner, Jr., John H. Payne, Robert Lee A. Cary, Homer C. King, Edgar Watkins, Jr., and John N. Moorhead.

Fourteen applicants stood the bar examination, which was conducted Wednesday, June 30, by Judge Pomeroy in his courtroom. Out of this number, only three were successful in passing. W. L. Harrison, an applicant who also passed the examination, will be sworn in at a later date. He was sworn to appear Wednesday to be sworn in and admitted with the others.

Man Slashes Wrist After Domestic Row, He Tells Doctors

S. W. Whiteman, 46, of 1087 Weatherly street, was treated at Grady hospital Thursday night after he had slashed his left wrist, cutting both an artery and vein, in a suicidal attempt, doctors at the hospital were told.

ARSENAL BLAST PROBE IS OPENED

Dover, N. J., July 13.—(AP)—The naval board investigating civil damage in the Lake Denmark arsenal disaster today heard the testimony of three witnesses. A large olive-drab tent served as a courtroom.

The witnesses, Augustus Fichter, and A. J. Sickles, civilian employees at the arsenal, and Chief Gunner W. most active in rescue and salvage work, described the destruction in various towns and villages surrounding the arsenal.

Rear Admiral F. R. Harris, president of the board of investigation, asked the cooperation of newspapers in notifying the public that all claims of injury or damage must be filed before July 23. He declared a congressional appropriation would be necessary if damages are awarded, as the navy had no authority to pay amounts exceeding $1,000.

Tomorrow, the naval court of inquiry into the disaster itself will be opened by Rear Admiral R. E. Coontz, its president, in the home of Captain O. C. Dowling, commander of the naval arsenal, who was severely injured.

The funeral of Mrs. Ida Wadhams, one of two known women victims, wife of the chief civilian clerk of the arsenal, was conducted today by Rev. E. O. Wilson, of the First Baptist church here. Two score friends and neighbors attended.

Relief organizations have closed their Dover emergency headquarters and stored their supplies and equipment, supporting their contention that danger of more blasts is over by having placed glass panes in windows that have yawning emptiness since last Saturday.

Searching parties continue to comb the shell-torn area for bodies of victims and parties of marines are extinguishing several smoldering fires to prevent the possible firing of unexploded magazines.

Bodies recovered indicate at least 22 and probably more, died in the disaster. Marine officers say four of their command remained unaccounted for.

A subterranean explosive magazine became an improvised office today, no building having remained standing in the locality.

PLAN TO DRAG LAKE FOR MORE BODIES.

New York, July 13.—(AP)—The eight fingers found fused to a piece of burning hose in the ruins of the naval munitions depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., were identified in the Brooklyn naval hospital today as those of Henry D. Mackert, Jr., of Richmond Hill, Queens, whose enlistment in the marines would have expired next week.

Mackert's body already has been identified and will be buried with military honors at Arlington national cemetery.

An official check at the navy yard showed that at least 20 service men and three civilians were killed in the disaster. The records showed 13 identified navy and marine corps dead and four unidentified. The only navy man missing is Chief Gunner H. M. Gately, of Brooklyn, whose ring was found in the ruins.

The missing marines are Oliver C. Bliss, Waterville, Ohio; Fred J. Rockford, Xenia, Ohio; John A. Little, of Leon, N. M., and O. D. White, Itasca, Minn.

Ten of the marines who were injured in the explosion were able to return to duty today.

Captain Roe R. Adams, bureau of ordnance department, from Washington, arrived here tonight to take command of the naval station.

Plans have been made to drag Lake Denmark tomorrow for bodies. Firemen today reported they believed they saw two bodies in the water and witnesses of the explosion previously related they saw men running toward the lake.

A heavy rain again fell tonight, which aided the marines in extinguishing several fires smoldering in the ruins.

Jilted Woman Is Winner In Battle for Love Nest

Wanted, Conn., July 13.—(AP)—Wounded on the face, but triumphant, Mrs. Marion Hemming, of Hartford, retained possession of the "The Cabin" at Highland lake tonight after a skirmish with three men armed with crowbars, who attempted to oust her. With the aid of the law, in the person of a lone motorcycle policeman, her victory was made complete. She not only holds the cottage on the lake front, which she has refused to turn over to a former sweetheart, Louis S. Griffing, of Hartford, but the guards who have been keeping her virtually a prisoner have been arrested.

This afternoon three men, each with a crowbar, descended on her voluntary prison. They had been acting as guards outside the property, which Mrs. Hemming claimed had been given to her by Griffing, after she asserts, he had promised to marry her.

The front door was forced open and as it swung inward, it struck Mrs. Hemming in the face, cutting her upper lip. Her 12-year-old son, who was charged with her during the skirmish for possession of the cottage, also was slightly hurt.

Mrs. Hemming was forced out upon the porch and the three guards began to remove the furniture. Samuel A. Herman, her counsel, appealed to the police and a motorcycle officer was sent to the cottage. Later warrants were served on the three guards, who were charged with breach of the peace. They were ordered by Judge Hadleigh Howd to return to Hartford.

AGED MAN MUST DIE FOR WIFE'S MURDER

Jackson, Miss., July 13.—(AP)—Declared mentally responsible by a special commission of alienists and with all hope of executive clemency one, Jeff Wallace, 80, father of 19 sons and daughters, will die on the gallows in the Marion county jail at Columbia tomorrow for the murder of his wife. Final decision not to commute the sentence and to send the aged man to an insane hospital was made by Governor Whitfield here late today when two alienists reported Wallace sane. The governor declared the crime "one of the most atrocious in the history of criminal procedure in Mississippi," and stated that he could see no reason to interfere with the court sentence.

Thirty Hurt in Crash.

Philadelphia, July 13.—Thirty passengers were injured, six seriously, when a bus was struck and completely overturned by a street car late today. All the passengers were pinned beneath the wrecked bus.

Avoid Poorly-Balanced Breakfasts

Quaker Oats supplies excellent "food balance"

If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety," hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. You may have unenergetic mornings because your breakfasts lack certain important food elements.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Five Reasons Why You Should Have Your Eyes Examined

Only four out of every ten motorists have normal vision.

Of the total number of annual accidents due to automobiles in the United States 85 per cent are preventable.

According to statistics acquired by the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, bad eyesight causes a large percentage of the preventable toll of life and limb.

Can you afford not to be SURE about the condition of your eyes? Have them examined today at HAWKES.

DETWILER TO HEAD BANKER INSTITUTE

Dallas, Texas, July 13.—(AP)—Mortgage transactions of ancient Babylon 2,200 years B. C. were called to witness the unchanging principles of that form of security Thursday before departmental conferences of the American Institute of Banking convention.

"The mortgage as a form of security has endured since the days of Babylon, where it was first used 43 centuries ago," a savings bank conference was told by Herman Buhl, of the American National Bank of Denver.

An unprecedented era of savings by individuals, and need for more hospitality in the form of "paper" were discussed at other conferences.

"Politics pervaded the convention tonight as several factions went into caucus to boost their respective candidates for the election of four national executive councilmen. Campaigns already in the field are Charles D. Hayward, Kansas City; Thomas Nugent, Chicago; William B. Thurston, Jr., Baltimore; G. Harold Welton, New Haven, Conn., and W. B. Joyce, Fort Worth, Texas.

Paul B. Detwiler, of Philadelphia, is unopposed to succeed Bruce Baird of New Orleans, as president. The same is true of P. E. Williams, of Los Angeles, for vice president.

GREAT ELKS' PARADE ENDS 62D REUNION

Chicago, July 15.—(AP)—The Elks' lodge celebrated its sixty-second annual grand lodge reunion today with a colorful procession in which 10,000 men marched along the north shore in a broad ribbon of blaring bands, sumptuous floats, caparisoned drum corps and drill squads arrayed in the purple and white of the fraternity.

The procession was the last formal event of the reunion, but many of the more than 800,000 visitors planned to remain tomorrow and Saturday for the two days of revelry which officially will bring the convention to an end.

Led by squadrons of motorized and mounted police and by the officials of the grand lodge, the procession proceeded northward from the business district under a hot July sun.

VICTORY CLAIMED BY NEW YORK SUBWAY STRIKERS

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Swelling ranks of the subway strikers were hailed today by strike leaders as a sign of early victory and classed as unimportant by subway officials.

During the day strike leaders announced that 150 power house men had walked out and that more would follow. Company officials placed the number of new strikers between 40 and 60 and announced that their places had been immediately filled and that no diminution in service would result.

To the martial airs of a hundred bands. The Illinois delegations, 4,000 strong, followed the escort up the line of march and in their wake came marchers, floats, bands and drum corps from almost every state of the country.

STYLE AUTHORITY ON WOMEN'S SHOES AT CHANDLER'S SHOP

Frank P. Ricca, assistant manager of the Chandler Boot shop, in New Orleans, is spending a few days in Atlanta in conference with officials of the Chandler organization at this, the home office. Mr. Ricca is one of the best-known specialists in women's footwear in the south, and is considered an authority on styles. Stating that business in New Orleans is on a distinctly upward trend, Mr. Ricca commented on the great activity apparent here. He also was loud in praise of the discrimination shown by local women in their selection of footwear, and paid a distinct compliment to the fair sex of Atlanta, the style center of the south.

While Mr. Ricca's visit to Atlanta was intended solely for the purpose of conferring with Chandler officials, the rush of customers in response to the announcement of a clearance of shoes at the local Chandler store has caused him to remain for a few days to help customers in their selection of sensible footwear.

Huge Cotton Port Planned In New York

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Members of the New York cotton exchange today authorized the board of managers to execute a contract with the Bayway terminal which will set in motion plans for a development expected to make New York one of the greatest cotton concentration ports in the country.

The plans call for an expenditure of about $5,000,000 for plant development at Elizabeth, N. J., on the Staten Island sound, where the Bayway terminal now has extensive warehouse facilities. The development is to be entirely by the Bayway company.

At the present time the Bayway terminal has facilities for handling and storing 60,000 bales of cotton.

Under the contract to be negotiated with the New York cotton exchange, these facilities will be increased to 100,000 bales within six months, and to 200,000 bales by October 1, 1927.

NEGRO SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING CONTINUES

The Sunday school convention of the West Atlanta district continued its sessions Thursday at College Park with Presiding Elder J. E. McCain in charge. The features of the day's meeting were a discussion concerning the attendance of delegates to conventions, and talks on the question of getting young people into Sunday school by the Reverends A. D. Hardeman, J. A. Stroud, R. L. Smith, J. W. West and C. D. Thornton.

Prominent among the delegates in attendance at the convention are, in addition to the above, Presiding Elders E. V. Thornton, J. R. Fleming, H. D. Canady and J. A. Hadley. John H. Lewis, president of Morris Brown, and R. T. Mathews, J. F. Beavers, superintendent of the College Park Sunday school, welcomed the delegates in a short talk. The Rev. J. N. Miller was slated to deliver the sermon Thursday night. Mrs. J. E. McCain will hold a Women's Missionary meeting today at 11:30 o'clock. Among the delegates were 84 women. Thursday's session was reported by R. D. Stinson.

PIRATES' POPULAR; SEAT DEMAND HEAVY

A line-up of two blocks greeted the opening of the box office at the Atlanta theater for the "Pirates of Penzance," masterpiece of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas which created a furore a few seasons ago with De Wolf Hopper in the role of major general. The opening of the operetta Monday night will usher in the fifth week of municipal light opera.

"Robin Hood" continues to delight capacity houses this week.

In fact, it is a local hit. Lewis Haines, "it hardly believe the Atlanta theater has ever held more people than it has this week, or turned away more."

Three performances remain of the De Koven masterpiece, Friday and Saturday night shows and Saturday matinee. Anne Iago, Mary Lella Patterson and Lewis Templeman are said to be giving their best performances as far as the tuneful solo numbers abound in the score.

Robbie have been given all week for "The Pirates," which will bring Louise Hunter before the footlights again as leading lady. She will play one of those daintily saucy parts so well suited to her diminutive beauty, in Mabel, the general's youngest daughter. Arthur Buckley will be the young English boy of noble birth who is apprenticed, under the drollest of circumstances, to be a pirate. The whole cast is well taken, and the show promises to rival this week's brilliant performance of "Robin Hood."

Three Men Held In Daring Holdup Of Alabama Bank

Birmingham, Ala., July 15.—(AP)—One man was in a local hospital tonight suffering from bullet wounds and two others were under arrest as the result of activities of authorities following the robbery of the Springville bank early this morning.

R. O. Kent is in the hospital, being shot through the left shoulder by Detective Milton Melfi and E. W. Jackson after he and Tim Casen refused to halt and attempted to make their escape from Pinson this afternoon.

Casen was captured after the detectives had wounded Kent, while the third man, Grady Reynolds, was taken into custody during the afternoon. Reynolds has a police record, according to officers, who advanced the opinion that he was leader of the three men who took $1,500 from the bank.

The robbery occurred this morning while two young women, Miss Margaret Forness, cashier, and Miss Carrie May Moody, assistant cashier, were alone in the bank. Shortly after midnight a man entered the bank and inquired for an unknown person who he said lived in that vicinity. Four masked men jumped from an automobile, entered the bank and ordered the two women to keep quiet, according to their story told to the police.

The robbers proceeded about their work quietly, one going into the cage and helping himself to the money bags which had been stored there preparatory to the opening of business.

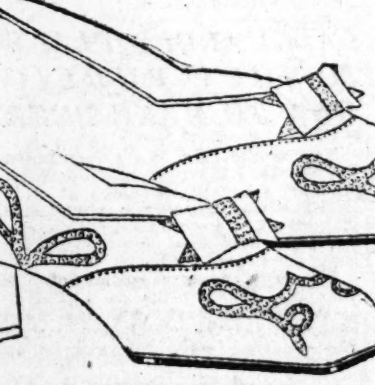

NEW MOVIE THEATER CONSTRUCTION BEGUN

Completion of the moving picture house to be located on Ponce de Leon avenue, near Boulevard, on which construction was begun Wednesday, is expected in time for opening in October. Frazier & Borden, Atlanta architects, who planned the building for G. R. Black, of Newnan, stated that the theater will contain a large pipe organ and other features for comfort of patrons.

Action Expected On Expenditure Of School Funds

Blanket confirmation of recommendations of the point committees of the board of education and the board of education concerning expenditure of the $1,000,000, which will be available for school purposes this year at the adjourned session of the board this afternoon was predicted freely Thursday.

Members of the board were inclined to believe that recommendations of the contact committee, which has spent much time in careful consideration of the problems of the public school system, will be passed without change.

High lights of the building program which was decided on by the joint commissions at an executive session Wednesday, are reported to call for completion of the four junior high school units; construction of five white grammar schools and four negro grammar schools; and the establishment of a $150,000 fund to purchase equipment for schools already erected.

The meeting of the board today will be for consideration only administration of the first $1,000,000 of the $3,600,000 allocated for school purposes from the $8,000,000 bond issue.

Another important matter which the board will have up for discussion is the establishment of a junior college in connection with the Atlanta public school system. If this were done, the present Girls' High school, under his scheme, would be abandoned, and this, the Atlanta Normal Training school, and the old city stockade building would be used as a nucleus for the proposed college and a new Girls' high school would be built nearer the center of Girls' High school population.

If the board approves the recommendations, the contact committee of the bond commission will carry them to the bond commission as a whole, where it is expected that they will be given unanimous endorsement. City council will then get the building scheme and Mayor Sims' approval will clear the way for beginning just as soon as drawings can be completed and contracts let.

ENGINE DROPPING FROM NAVY PLANE, IT INJURES SIX

San Diego, Cal., July 15.—(AP)—Six navy aviation corps enlisted men were injured, one seriously, yesterday when the engine dropped from their monoplane at a height of 1,200 feet. Anthony Iannucci brought the ship from a tail spin to land without completely wrecking it. The engine dropped into a bean field and was buried.

H. T. Hammond, machinist's mate first class, suffered a fractured skull; Iannucci, pilot, and three others received minor bruises, while the sixth man escaped injury by using a parachute.

The plane was one of a squadron of 23 flying with Admiral Charles J. Hughes, battle fleet commander.

The membership campaign is in charge of J. O. Harrison, B. B. Barber is president of the Atlanta post B. of C. Harrison secretary, and R. H. Floyd, publicity chairman.

DEATH-CAR DRIVER BELIEVED CAUGHT

Miami, Fla., July 15.—(AP)—Charles Byron, negro, captured here today was said by police to have confessed to running over and killing a woman school teacher in America, Ga., six weeks ago. He could not recall the name of the teacher.

Authorities are awaiting word from Sheriff W. P. McArthur, of America.

OFFICER LEAVES TO GET NEGRO

America, Ga., July 15.—(Special.)—That a negro believed to be Charles Brown, alias "Charley Buckeye," wanted here in connection with the death of Miss Alice Ruth Timmerman on a highway near the city in April is held in Miami, was the information received here today. The negro was seen upon the streets at Miami and recognized by Frank "Squinch" Martin, an American youth now living in Miami. Deputy Sheriff Chappell left America last night for Miami to bring the prisoner here for trial.

Miss Timmerman was killed when a dilapidated car filled with illicit liquor and said to have been piloted by "Charley Buckeye," crashed into a machine in which she was a passenger and driven by Mrs. S. H. Timmerman.

MORTGAGE GUARANTEE DIVIDEND IS ISSUED

Stockholders of the Mortgage Guarantee Company of America Thursday received dividend checks representing their first mortgage loan business of dividend paid by this company on its preferred stock at the rate of 8 percent per annum.

The June 30 balance sheet of this company, which was organized in the summer of 1924, now reflects total assets of $1,290,734.91, and officers of the company report that within this comparatively short period there have succeeded in developing the largest first mortgage loan business of any company in the southeastern states. Its present volume, it is stated, is at the rate of approximately $6,000,000 per annum.

This volume represents individual mortgages mainly on private residences, the company making no loans in the form of bonds or commercial mortgages. It also is interesting to note that a great majority of these loans are being made on new properties located within the city of Atlanta and the metropolitan district. The company, however, is in the process of expanding its operations to include the larger cities in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Texas.

The majority of mortgage loans made by this company are resold in the form of guaranteed first mortgage certificates, bearing 5 1/2 percent interest and guaranteed jointly by the Mortgage Guarantee Company of America and the National Surety company, thus placing behind these certificates, in addition to the real estate security, combined capital funds in excess of $7,000,000. These certificates are bought by conservative investors, including banks, insurance companies and other institutions in all parts of the United States.

Detroit Wins In Balloon Race Breaking Record

Chicago, July 15.—(AP)—The big gas bag Detroit won the Elks' balloon race and is believed to have broken the world's record for distance covered when it landed today at Jennings, Fla., approximately 854 miles in an air line from Chicago. It was the last of the four balloons in the race to report.

Word was received here late today that the Detroit had made a safe landing after being unreported for 48 hours following the start of the race.

Officials tonight were considering calling on naval planes to scour the Gulf of Mexico for the bag, entered by the Detroit Flying club and piloted by Williams, assisted by A. G. Schlesinger.

The El-Ball, also a Detroit entry, made the second best record of 633 miles for bags of 35,000 cubic feet capacity when it landed at Portland, Ark., early today. The Goodyear IV of Akron, landed near Huron, Tenn. The bag of Captain H. E. Honeywell, of St. Louis, was forced down yesterday at Thompsonville, Ill.

The race started here Tuesday night at 6 o'clock when the four bags took the air from Grant park in the downtown lake front district.

COMMITTEE APPROVES BIDS ON WATER PIPING

Bids for cast iron piping, valves and other accessories necessary for the 40-inch water main which will be laid shortly in the northern section of the city, were approved Thursday by the water committee of city council, of which Alderman Claude Ashley is chairman.

The completed project will cost approximately $130,000 and will give the northern section of the city an adequate water pressure for the next five decades, according to expert engineers. It will begin at West Peachtree and Eleventh streets and go from Tenth street to Virginia avenue, Barnett and out St. Charles avenue. This water committee of city council, of which Alderman Claude Ashley is chairman.

Work on the large feeder main for the west side of the city and extending to West End will begin as soon as specifications and drawings are completed. W. Zode Smith, superintendent of waterworks, announced Thursday afternoon.

The committee also authorized the laying of short stretches of two-inch piping on Crawford place, Lakewood avenue and Graves street.

PRAYER—Lord, establish Thy word unto Thy servant.

GEORGIA A GIBRALTAR.

The closing of a number of small banks in Georgia that were members of a chain having its one financing organization in Atlanta is not the slightest cause for a ripple on the economic surface in this state, nor in the southeast.

That the majority and perhaps most of these banks are solvent there is no question. The failure, however, of the parent financing agency to further function, due to urgent charges of speculations, etc., made it necessary of course for many of the bank links in the chain to temporarily suspend until their assets can be worked out and proper financial arrangements can be made for their reopening.

None of the large banks in the state is in any way involved, and as stated by the state bank director and by leading bankers who are in close touch with every phase of Georgia's economic situation, the banking situation in the state on the whole is in better and sounder condition than it has been since 1920, and infinitely better than it was even a year ago at this time, with money pouring into the state from the peach, melon, potato and vegetable markets, and with one of the most encouraging cotton crop prospects in years.

Within 30 days new cotton will begin to move. Viewed, therefore, with reason and with cool judgment, there is no occasion anywhere—not even in the local communities in which the closed institutions are located—for the slightest alarm.

It is unfortunate that a number of communities are temporarily embarrassed, but that the embarrassments will be temporary is practically assured. The assets in most instances are amply able to take care of the liabilities, including full payments to depositors.

Some of these resources are possibly what is known in banking circles as "frozen," which will take the usual delays in liquidating, but Georgia real estate, farm values, community progress are all of too substantial a nature to produce anything of a destructive character as affecting general economics.

In the present situation the public must realize that the falling of a chain system of small banks, when they are guided and directed very largely from one fountain head, does not in any sense reflect upon general economic conditions.

Nor can general economic soundness, as prevails in Georgia to a marked degree at this time, possibly save such a chain from weakening at any or all of its welded joints if the parent institution, or financing corporation, becomes weak, or has performed any acts that withdraws from it the financial support that it would receive under conservative management.

The situation that has developed in Georgia within the past 72 hours ought to have a strengthening effect, and it ought to impress a lesson that the legislature should learn before its next session.

The state banking laws should prohibit a bowling alley system of small country banks—that is to say, a system that depends upon one fountain head that must, in falling, pull down even temporarily the other links in the system, like the throwing of ten pins. They should prohibit such parent institution from either speculating or investing in so-called frozen credits any of the resources of the members of the chain. They should prohibit the personal speculations of the officers of any such fountain head, or parent institution, certainly in any way that touches or involves institutional finances. They should prohibit small banks, within prescribed capital and resources, from investing in frozen credits, or from loaning on any but liquid security, quickly negotiable at any time without recourse.

It was a loose legal system of small banks that gave North and South Dakota a most serious setback some years ago. Those states did not recover until they saw the stupidity of a killing system of credits and strengthened their banking system by proper law revisions.

Georgia's small banks, on the whole, including those in the chain that is now embarrassed, are strong and substantial and most of the closed banks will, no doubt, shortly reopen. But such temporary embarrassments could be alleviated if the assembly would prohibit a repetition of that which has caused the present status in this particular chain.

In the meantime Georgia's manifold resources make her a Gibraltar of economic strength.

A PERENNIAL NUISANCE.

The Atlanta school board is confronted again with the perennial and expensive movement to change textbooks. This time it is understood the attack is made on an old and honored history dealing with the early ancient life and times in Europe. It is proposed to substitute another history dealing with modern European history. Perhaps both should be used, but history students assuredly should be taught ancient as well as modern history, for ancient history forms the basis for a correct understanding of modern history.

The selection of textbooks is a sacred and important matter. It should be met with intellectual fitness as well as with a broadness of vision and purpose that appears entirely absent in the present movement.

The book committee of the school board, or the board itself, qualify by training and education and teaching experience, as capable of changing textbooks to the advantage of the particular course of study in question?

If any change is to be made at any time a competent board of teachers who are specialists in the course involved should survey the situation and at least recommend the changes. Where changes are not essential or necessary they should be avoided on account of the enormous expenses involved.

The Atlanta school board has been involved in internal and petty politics to a most destructive extent. It lost much of its usefulness by reason of petty political factionalism, and the citizens of Atlanta, who are the parents of 50,000 school children, had hoped that better judgment and saner heads had a grasp upon the whole school board situation. It hopes so today.

It is hoped that the proposal to change the course of study and to throw out of the schools an old textbook that has been taught for more than five years will have more to commend it than the pretext upon which the attack is based. If not it should meet the vigorous and emphatic veto of the better and broader thinking majority of the board.

The school system is maintained by taxation. It costs thousands of dollars to change textbooks. It costs the parents in addition to the school taxes. It is economically unsound unless there is some good reason—better reason certainly than appears in the present movement—to fasten this new proposed burden upon the Atlanta parents.

STANDARDIZING COTTON.

An international conference for the establishment of a system of universal cotton standards is a step in the right direction. Secretary Jardine, of the United States department of agriculture, is to be commended for his activity in the matter. It is hoped it will be attended by representatives, with authority to act, from every cotton exchange and distributing organization in the world.

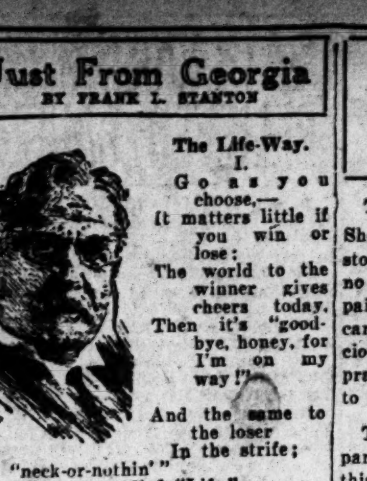

The standardization of grades that applies alike to all cotton-consuming countries ought to have been accomplished long ago. By reason of a lack of this international standardization cotton marketing in the general export trade has been most confusing, and frequently with heavy and entirely unnecessary losses to growers on account of incomparable quotations.

Not only should grades be universally standardized, but there should be a system of standardizing the staple. That is to say, there are certain definite mill demands for a one-inch staple, other demands for an even larger staple, while there are equally as heavy mill demands, by the growth of new industries in which short staple cotton is used, for less than inch staples. There is no longer any real commercial reason for penalizing a very short staple cotton. And certainly there is no good reason for penalizing a standard staple, or a long staple, by tossing several lengths into a common selling pool and basing the quotation upon the shorter staple.

There are many good results that the conference called by Secretary Jardine can accomplish if it will take up the whole proposition of standardization as to grades and staple lengths.

The subject of an editorial in The Houston Post-Dispatch is "Religion in Summer." It ought to be of the red hot variety.

It seems that nothing can kill the bull weevil; it's never rained out or talked to death.

COLD SPELL OVER Normal Summer Weather Predicted for Atlanta.

There will be little cause to remark soon that the weather was cold early in the morning, for normal summer temperatures will return to Atlanta today, according to C. F. von Herrmann, Atlanta meteorologist.

With the coldest day in July experienced in the past 40 years, the mercury will drop to 50 degrees, which is a record for the month, according to von Herrmann said. The sudden drop in temperature was attributed by the meteorologist to a pressure from the northwest.

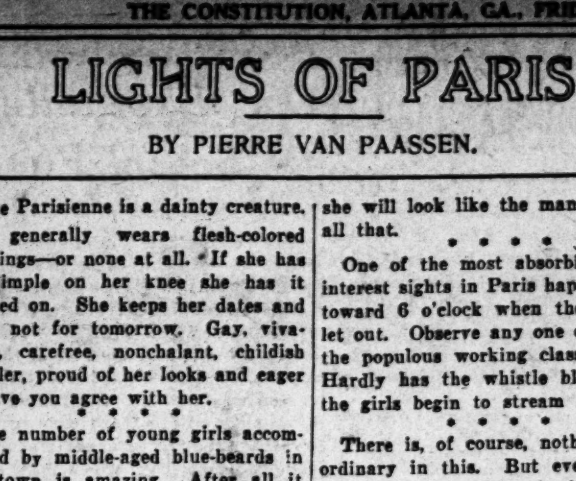

The lowest temperature reading Thursday morning was 50 degrees, which is a record for the month, according to von Herrmann said. The sudden drop in temperature was attributed by the meteorologist to a pressure from the northwest.

Today's readings are expected to be higher and will be accompanied by fair weather, it is predicted. Fair and warm weather will last through Saturday, according to the Washington weather bureau forecast.

LIGHTS OF PARIS

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Parisienne is a dainty creature. She generally wears flesh-colored stockings—or none at all. If she has no dimple on her knee she has it painted on. She keeps her dates and cares not for tomorrow. Gay, vivacious, carefree, nonchalant, childlike prattler, proud of her looks and eager to have you agree with her.

The number of young girls accompanied by middle-aged blue-beards in this town is amazing. After all it lends variety to the scenery. It would be a dull world indeed if we were all the same age.

The most bizarre and striking feminine fashions are to be seen on the boulevards toward three or four in the afternoon. Young women mannequins of the fashionable dress houses make a little tour. If you stop to look, they stop also and pirouette and strut for your especial delectation.

Incidentally these mannequins are perhaps the most perfect samples of womanhood in Europe. The little round matron from Bridgeport, Conn., may ask for the girl's card and go over to the shop to buy a similar dress, but that does not mean to say she will look like the mannequin for all that.

One of the most absorbing human interest sights in Paris happens along toward 6 o'clock when the factories let out. Over any one of them in the populous working class districts. Hardly has the whistle blown when the girls begin to stream away.

There is, of course, nothing extraordinary in this. But every second girl has her lover or husband waiting for her outside. And then there begins a kissing and hugging and a bit of breath-taking. They really act as if they have just seen each other after a five years' absence.

With that I don't mean that they just took life's sake and then they walk away with lips glued to each other.

Beyond the Place de la Bastille, where once loomed that formidable and gruesome prison; are the popular dance halls. It is not safe for strangers to invade these neighborhoods after eight or nine at night. The police warn you at the beginning of the streets, but in the streets themselves the cops don't venture much. They also like to live a little longer.

Fishing Firemen Made Jubilant By Rule Change

Fishing firemen and those who lean toward the sport world, Thursday were jubilant following announcement of Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, chief of the Atlanta fire board, that he will call a special meeting of the body for 10 o'clock Saturday morning to consider change of certain rules of the department which prevent firemen substituting for fishing and other recreation of their choosing.

Mr. Dobbs declared that the rule works a hardship on hundreds of men employed in this department of the city government and he believes a modification would be of great benefit to the city.

The present rule prohibits one from relieving another until the change of watches, thus preventing those on night shifts from going to shows and seeking other modes of recreation, while those on the day shift are deprived of fishing and other privileges which accompany daylight.

Looking and Listening

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Forty-eight years ago today, July 16, 1880, I sat in the old station in London in the seats reserved for the minister to Great Britain, John Welch, and his party, to join in welcoming Disraeli, then prime minister, to the British embassy.

Disraeli, then prime minister, to the British embassy. The international composition made in that "world court," so to term it, assured the peace of Europe for a generation.

The welcome given to the British delegates was fairly royal in trapping of state and popular delirium. Disraeli, responding, declared "We bring peace with honor!"

HEALTHY TALKS

BY WM. BRADY, M. D.

WHAT A CANNER CAN DO. Orange ripened in the sun is the richest source of vitamin C, which is essential to prevent scurvy, and perhaps tomato juice or raw tomato soup or orange juice a good second in this respect.

Even canned tomato, when the fresh raw tomato is not obtainable, is rich in vitamin C and serves practically as well as orange juice as a means of providing this essential factor in the diet of an infant. But one precaution must be taken, when tomato juice is used, to see that it is vitamin C, and that is, use raw tomato, not cooked tomato, which has ripened in the sun, and if only canned, use only tomato which is canned in a hermetically sealed tin or can so that air or oxygen is excluded and the cooking is practically done in the vacuum. This prevents oxidation and it is oxidation which destroys the vitamin. In ordinary home canning the fruit or vegetable is cooked with more or less exposure to the air and the vitamin is destroyed.

Raw cabbage or cabbage cooked only a few minutes and immediately after harvesting, is a valuable source of vitamin C. Canned cabbage is well supplied with this scurvy preventive.

Apples are rich in vitamin C and apple juice may well be in infant feeding when orange or tomato juice is not available. Apples canned in factory preserves their vitamin C as well as other nutrients. It is best to eat cold storage or in the cellar.

The most recent evidence is that canned fruits and vegetables do not deteriorate in the vitamin C content even after many months, perhaps years, provided they were canned when freshly harvested and by the vacuum or factory method.

There is a little scientific trick which the housewife may employ in her canning, to conserve the vitamin C of the fruit or vegetable. It is thus described in the little book on "Food, Nutrition and Health" recently published by Professor E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins.

Theatergoers prepared for canning as soon as they come from the garden, but are first immersed in slightly salted water for a few hours. The juice of the fruit and vegetables contains considerable dissolved oxygen, and this is used up while they are in the water, which shuts off the oxidation of the vitamin. The result is that the vitamin content of the produce is preserved during subsequent heating in the can.

This is a matter that ought to seriously concern our people and cause concerted action to force a definite decision in congress next winter.

The Georgia peach is having its annual welcome throughout the country. It is snapped up eagerly in all the markets and if the grocers could have the prices asked for their product in Washington, New York and Boston, they would walk on velvet knee-deep.

Their only way to get the lion's share of what the consumer pays for the fruit is to more adequately organize their cooperative marketing. They must do what their kids so often do in playing marbles—"knock out the middleman." It can be done when the right man is found for organizer.

California has twice as many peach trees as Georgia and the fruit, for looks and for business, is not comparable with ours. But what of his crop the Californian cannot market to profit he can and ships all over the earth. Right here in Atlanta the shelves of our grocery stores are loaded with cans of California peaches and our tables served with them all the year around. That is really a scandal to us. We can be better off with peaches we will only whirl in and do it.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR TESTING LONG RANGE CAMERA

Washington, July 15.—Plans for testing a long range camera using lens capable of photographing objects from an altitude of 30,000 feet, will be completed this month by the engineering division of the army air corps at McCook field, it was announced by the war department today.

A 30,000 foot altitude airplane is completely out of sight of the ground," says the announcement, "yet a photograph taken from that height with the new lens is the same size as the one normally taken from the height of 10,000 feet."

After several test flights an attempt will be made to photograph the city of Detroit from high altitude over Dayton, Ohio.

Mercantile Concern Declared Bankrupt Following Petition

Smith & Higgins, Inc., mercantile establishment, Thursday was declared bankrupt following the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy by three creditors of the concern.

Samuel H. Sibley, of the north Georgia district federal court, declared the defendants bankrupt after officials charged with preliminary hearing. The case was adjudicated at once.

The petition against the company was filed by the following, who listed accounts against the firm: At. Knott Co., $800.00; Stratlin, Harrington Co., $32.08; and the All-Star Manufacturing Co., $89.80, a total of $1,012.78.

The firm was founded in 1911 by Robert H. Jones, Jr., attorney, set out that several accounts against the concern had been paid recently, thus placing them

Only Farm Measure Passed By Congress Merely Extends 13-Year-Old Market Bureau

Administration Unable To Get Much Political Capital From Bill in Appeal for Farm Votes.

Washington, July 15.—(Special.)—The only farm measure passed by congress at the last session, the bill sponsored by the administration to set up a bureau of cooperative marketing in the department of agriculture, will do nothing of the kind.

The reason is that there is already such an agency in the department, and has been for the last 13 years. What the new legislation will do is to extend the service provided by this agency. That the bill will result in creating a new agency in the department, but only an extension under the 13-year-old agency, was revealed by inquiry at the department.

As a result, it is not likely that the administration can get much political capital from the measure which was passed after every other farm relief bill had been voted down. As a matter of fact, farmers will not find a great deal of difference in the department, merely more research and more information, which will aid them in a way of course, but not in a new way.

In 1913, the office of markets was established in the department with crop purchasing and marketing as one of its projects. Later the bureau of cooperative marketing was created, and in 1924 it became the division of agricultural cooperation, with Chris Christensen in charge, and thus became by official designation just what the bill passed last session was supposed to create.

Christensen is head. Secretary Jardine has appointed Christensen head of the "new" division of cooperative marketing, although all that has really taken place has been a change of name for an established government agency and a better appropriation. Since its establishment the cooperative marketing division of the agricultural department has received about $30,000 a year. For the year beginning July 1 it was allotted $50,000 in the 1927 budget, and now, in addition, it gets $150,000 from the new bill, making a total of $200,000.

Officials declare that the growth of the cooperative marketing movement in the United States during the last five years has far outstripped the government machinery concerned with it. There are now about 12,000 cooperatives in the country. The enlarged funds at the command of the division, it was explained, will enable it to expand its force sufficiently to employ experts who can keep in touch with the activities of each class of cooperatives and aid them in the solution of their various problems. Studies of price trends and market conditions for various farm products are also to be expanded.

But officials declare that it will not be possible to expand the division very rapidly. It may not use up all of its available funds for this year. It takes time, they explained, to employ the proper experts and set up the desired contacts with the different classes of farm production. Results from the increased appropriations may not be seen for a year.

May Assist Farmers. This situation apparently will block an effort by the administration to point with private industry in the marketing bill during the fall campaign. Whatever help the farmers may have had from the cooperative work of the government in connection with agriculture during the last year, it will have come from the organization which has been at work for thirteen years, and not from the new farm program. President Coolidge and congress agree upon.

Nevertheless, as time goes on officials expect to see more activity on the part of the government in connection with cooperative marketing to be of real assistance to agriculture. According to Christensen, there has been a heavy demand on the department during the past year for information regarding the experiences of successful cooperative organizations for instruction in the tested principles of cooperatives and for guidance in meeting membership, business and legal problems.

The value of farm products," said Christensen, "sold through cooperative associations during 1924 was practically four times as great as in 1919. New problems in cooperation are arising, and questions of rural finance, insurance, production programs, transportation and distribution are influenced by activities of the farmers' marketing and purchasing associations. The future of the nation depends on the successful solution of economic problems rather than on the advocacy or adoption of special forms of organization, and on the education of members in the principles of cooperatives."

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 15.—(P)—The morning session of the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' association was featured by an address by V. L. Price, president of the National Confectioners' association. He dealt largely with the retail price problem. He said that the industry had made progress, except the human nature end, which was the same as 25 years ago. He said the retail committee of the national association was functioning with good results and that manufacturers looked at the retail price problem from the viewpoint of jobbers, and believed jobbers should have a fair profit and hence were generally favorable to the establishment of retail prices.

The association dues were increased from $15 to $25 per year. The members of the association were taken on sightseeing tours this afternoon.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN, 86, DIES AT HOME Lovick Pierce Harris, 86, Confederate veteran, died Thursday afternoon at the home, 22 Callan circle, Inman Park, after a short illness.

He belonged to St. Paul's Methodist church and was a Mason. He retired from business several years ago. Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. M. R. Harris and Mrs. T. B. Weir, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. H. Cappe, of Richmond, Va.; and three sons, W. H. Harris, of East Point; J. P. Harris, of New York; and J. H. Harris, of Fort Myers, Fla.

The body was removed to the chapel H. M. Patterson & Son awaiting funeral arrangements.

North Georgia Rum Raids Net Two Huge Stills

Capture of two rum stills, having a joint capacity of 350 gallons a day, in Dawson and Lumpkin counties on Wednesday, was reported Thursday to the office of W. T. Day, director of prohibition for the northern district of Georgia. Prohibition Agents J. L. Kimsey and J. B. Wallace filed the report, which indicated that County Officers W. C. Crowe also assisted in the raids, which, in addition to the two stills, netted 18,500 gallons of beer, 48 gallons of liquor and other accessories.

One of the liquor plants had a capacity of 300 gallons a day, and it was seized four miles north of Dawsonville in Dawson county, the smaller being found about three miles west of Auria in Lumpkin county.

No arrests were made.

Josiah Kirby, Finance Wizard Enters Prison

Josiah Kirby, jovial middle-aged financial wizard, whose alleged illegal operations as president and promoter of the now defunct Cleveland Discount company, resulted in a seven-and-a-half-year term in the Atlanta federal prison, Thursday entered the walls of the Atlanta institution and became prisoner No. 22837.

Apparently undaunted by the prospect of spending seven long years within the confines of the penitentiary, Kirby went about the routine of preliminary examination in generalities. His appearance at the prison created a bit of commotion, since he is a man of considerable financial resources, and drew the long term following his conviction on charges of using the mails to defraud.

His entry into Atlanta was unceremonious and he and seven fellow prisoners accompanied by six guards evaded Atlanta newspapermen and photographers who were waiting for their arrival.

Kirby will be assigned to his duties in the prison as such as examinations are completed, which probably will consume all day today.

He is president of the Georgia Sweet Potato Growers' association, and has always been active in the civic affairs of this section of the state; is now chairman of the board of trustees of the Lyons consolidated schools, is director and attorney for the Toombs county bank, county auditor, and served eight years in the house and two years in the senate of the general assembly of Georgia.

In this service he was always active in the important measures coming before the legislature during his tenure.

Details of the plan sponsored by the Atlanta Motor club to aid in avoiding automobile accidents by a thorough test of brakes of all motor vehicles are being worked out by Oscar L. Raymond, secretary of the motor club, and A. J. Holcomb, acting chief of police, who was instructed by the police committee at its meeting Wednesday to cooperate with Mr. Raymond.

In the brake test, which will not be compulsory, experienced men of the police department will be in charge to determine whether a vehicle driven at a definite speed can stop within a certain distance. If the test proves satisfactory, a sticker, signifying that the test has been passed, will be pasted on the windshield. If the brakes are not satisfactory, information regarding the necessary corrections will be given the owner.

Motorists have been asked to cooperate in this movement to make Atlanta traffic safer. The time and place of the tests will be announced when plans are concluded, it was stated. Information regarding the test can be had at the offices of the motor club.

Only 3 Candidates In Race for Congress As Entry Lists Close

Mayor Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta; J. Leslie Steele, of Decatur, and Wilbur D. Tinslow, incumbent, were the only candidates who had qualified for the race for congress from the fifth Georgia district, when entry lists closed at noon Thursday, it was announced by Walter McElreath, chairman of the fifth district congressional committee.

All three of the candidates already have begun active campaigns, and a stiff fight will be carried on up to the very day of the primary, September 8, it was announced from headquarters of each of the contestants.

Under the primary rules the candidate receiving a plurality in any county shall name the delegates from that county to the district convention to be held September 18. Any candidate receiving a majority of county unit votes in the convention will be declared elected, but if no candidate is elected on the first ballot instructions will be cancelled. If no candidate has a majority after two days of balloting the candidate with a plurality of county unit votes will be elected, provided he has a majority of popular votes. Otherwise a runoff election will be held between the two leading candidates.

The unit vote for the district follows: Fulton county, six votes; DeKalb county, six votes; Rockdale county, two votes; Campbell county, two votes; Douglas county, two votes.

WEST BOND PLAN FULLY APPROVED

Every obstacle in the way of immediate sale of bonds from the $8,000,000 issue voted March 24 for civic improvements was removed Thursday when B. Graham West, city comptroller and author of the "West" plan under which the bonds were authorized, received a communication from Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge, nationally-known bond experts, giving final approval to the issue.

"There is no doubt that the bonds will find a ready market, after being tested in almost every conceivable manner in Fulton superior court and finally by having this stamp of approval placed on them," Mr. West stated, "and just as soon as plans are evolved to begin the great construction program, the bond money will be ready to function."

The bond brokerage concern is the same one which passed on the legality of the issue prior to the vote of council, which passed the entire issue to citizens in a city-wide referendum, and the letter of approval was merely a matter of form, as Mr. West's original plan was adopted without modification in any respect.

Under the scheme, $2,000,000 will be available each year from 1926 to 1930, the bonds to be sold as funds are needed to push the several projects contemplated in the issue.

Of the $2,000,000 available this year, $1,000,000 is to be expended on a school expansion program, $500,000 on sewers and $500,000 on the water system.

The opinion of the Boston concern follows in part: "We have examined the papers submitted to us relating to the bond issue and are of the opinion the issue is duly authorized by the proceedings and that the bonds executed and issued accordingly in the forms which we have seen will be valid obligation of the city of Atlanta, provided the sales of the bonds are confirmed from time to time by the general council."

SOUTHERN SYSTEM TO PAINT ENGINES IN VIVID COLORS

Displacing the somber black which has been the universal color for locomotives on American railways in recent years, the Southern Railway system has adopted a color scheme of Virginia green, gold and burnished steel for 23 heavy Pacific type passenger engines, now being reeved from the J. M. Wood plant of the American Locomotive company.

The first of these engines to be seen in Atlanta will arrive Sunday, July 25, pulling number 37, the southbound "Crescent Limited."

GEORGIA POSTMASTERS TO HOLD CONVENTION

More than 100 postmasters representing cities throughout Georgia are expected to attend the annual convention of the Georgia branch of the National League of District Postmasters which convenes at the Ansley hotel Monday morning, July 25, for a two-day session.

Postmaster Edwin K. Large, of Atlanta, will deliver the address of welcome. Other prominent speakers who are slated to deliver addresses during the sessions include Mayor Walter A. Sims, J. P. Johnson, post office inspector in charge of the district, S. G. McLendon, secretary of state, and others.

HOTEL SALE TO ELKS TERMED FALSE RUMOR

Persistent reports of the sale of the Georgian Terrace hotel to Atlanta Lodge No. 78, B. P. O. Elks, are erroneous, according to telegraphic advices to The Constitution from J. Turner Fitten, exalted ruler, who is attending the national Elks' reunion at Chicago.

Reports were circulated that the Atlanta Elks had purchased the hotel for a clubhouse and also would operate it for members visiting the city. Mr. Fitten was notified and he answered that the reports were untrue.

ALCUTTA RIOTS TAKE HEAVY TOLL

By G. W. SEABRIDGE.
Calcutta, July 15.—Business in Calcutta is again suspended, and all policemen available in the vicinity patrol the streets following a resumption of Hindu-Muslim rioting which resulted in eight known deaths and the injury of more than 100 persons.

Isolated assaults continued after nightfall, but the main portion of the city was tensely quiet. An open outbreak in north Calcutta has been prevented only by strongest police supervision, which makes mobilization of armed gangs impossible under cover of darkness. Mohammedan rioters of the outbreak are being rounded up hourly, and thus far more than 100 of them are in jail.

Police are convinced that the outbreak, which was planned, had, nevertheless, been long planned. It occurred when a group of peaceful Hindus, under police protection, began a procession to the Hooghly river, where they expected to immerse an image of one of the Hindu goddesses. When they were attacked by the Mohammedan gangs the Hindus made a hasty effort to maintain their procession formation. They succeeded in getting to the river, but there a second attack occurred and the religious ceremony was abandoned.

The police were called out immediately and with drawn swords charged into the rioting mass of Hindus and Muslims. Knives, bricks and clubs were used by the attacking rioters. Fifty rounds of ammunition, fired into the air, finally stopped their assault on the Hindus. When the first ambulances arrived four persons were taken to the morgue and 40 sent to the hospitals. Four of the injured fighters died at a hospital. During the fighting the Mohammedans are believed to have murdered three of their dead, and for this reason it is thought likely that more than eight were killed.

Many telegrams have been sent to the viceroy of India, urging him to intervene and prevent further disorder.

"NICK" LONGWORTH MAY BE CANDIDATE

eral clipping of Coolidge that other republican politicians are taking, not openly, but in under-cover preparatory steps. Much under-cover maneuvering is going on now, of which this is one of the first open evidences. The stout sponsorship of rather drastic farm legislation by such men as Governor Lowden, of Illinois, and Vice President Dawes were such evidences several weeks ago. These changes, presidential candidates are getting ready in case there comes a decided break away from Coolidge.

The Longworth-Simpson teaming is about the most interesting. If Simpson could win the southern republican delegations to Longworth it would be a great aid to the southern delegations for Coolidge long in advance of the convention in 1934, so that everything was in ship-shape when the convention came along.

Longworth Popular.
Longworth himself is an interesting figure, and in addition occupies a strategic position as speaker of the house. He is in the house with both republicans and democrats. In republicans in the house for whom he has done any number of political favors. Longworth is the nucleus of a machine. It is no small thing either that his wife happens to be Alice Roosevelt. She wields large influence.

Longworth's position would be made even better if Alice Pomerene, of Ohio, defeats the republican incumbent, Senator William Pomerene, would immediately become one of the outstanding democratic candidates for the presidential nomination. The demand from the republicans would be for some one who could prevent Pomerene from carrying the state in 1932. Longworth, in this case, would be the best bet for the republicans provided Coolidge were out of the race.

The southern trip and its developments will be well worth watching.

122nd Infantry, 'Atlanta's Own' Pitches Tents On Tybee Island for Two-Weeks Encampment

Upper view shows tented city at Tybee Island as many Atlanta citizens "fall in" for two weeks' training. Lower left shows what took place when "mess call" was sounded, and on lower right is seen some of the bag and baggage unloaded when the troops arrived at the camp.

Camp Hammond, Tybee Island, Ga., July 15.—(Special.)—With arrival here yesterday afternoon of Major General C. C. Hammond, chief of the militia bureau, war department, Washington, D. C., the camp of the 122nd infantry changed its name from Camp Tybee to Camp Hammond, in honor of the distinguished visitor.

The second high officer to visit the camp arrived Wednesday in the person of Major General "Zeke" Williams, commanding general of the 30th division, national guard. Proper salutes were fired in honor of these general officers.

The close of the fourth day of the annual two weeks' encampment came yesterday night, and found "Atlanta's Own" regiment functioning with clocklike precision. Officers and men have settled down to routine work, albeit the Savannah snap and punch in each day's program that reflects marked interest in plans and a willingness on the part of everyone to cooperate in the training of the regular army instructing staff.

Parade Is Held.

Another regimental parade on the beach Wednesday afternoon attracted the usual throng of Savannahs, visitors on the island and natives. Minor details which were a bit rough in the parade had been smoothed out in yesterday's parade. The last of the parade was a drill in the regimental line and looking like the sun-tanned and seasoned veterans of the regular army.

Weather conditions have been excellent since arrival of the regiment Monday morning, although heavy rains Sunday and Monday last week-end left the camp ground proper in soaked condition. High winds and sunshine dawned on a dry and well-arranged camp for the nearly 1,500 north Georgians in camp.

Sanitation continues to be excellent, according to inspecting officers, with every precaution being taken to insure proper health conditions and comfort of officers and men in camp. An abundance of fresh vegetables and accessibility of Savannah as a market for food enables purchase of a wide variety of "chow."

Later this week organized recreational features will get underway, track events, prize drill programs and other events will be arranged. Medals are offered each year for various events of this nature and keenest rivalry exists among companies. Instructors are judges of events in which drills and military contests are staged.

A number of well-known men are expected to visit the soldiers at some time or other during the course of the encampment, among them Governor Clifford Walker and Mayor Sims, of Atlanta. General Johnson A. Hagood, commanding the fourth corps area, is expected from Atlanta the latter part of the week to visit his son, Johnson A. Hagood, Jr., who is a corporal in the regimental company.

In fact the company is attracting visitors from all over the state, and in particular from Atlanta, as most of the members of the various outfits are from that city.

Instruct Daily.

Daily instruction in all parts of military life is being given the officers and men. The special instructors will give instruction and pass a final grade to be forwarded to Washington. One of the assisting factors in the situation of the encampment is the fact that Tybee boasts one of the finest beaches on the Atlantic coast and every afternoon at 4 o'clock, formal guard mount is held in the presence of numbers of interested spectators.

Surf bathing and other water sports are being indulged in daily by the men in their off-duty hours. A basketball league has been formed, and splendid boxing programs are being originated. A number of dances and other social events are also being planned.

WIFE SPIRITED AWAY

South Carolina Man Seeks Mate.

Spartanburg, S. C., July 15.—(P)—Habeas corpus proceedings have been instituted here by Lloyd Robbins, 21, against Mr. and Mrs. B. Berlin for the return of his wife, who, it is claimed, the parents have spirited away and will not permit to see him.

Robbins married Miss Sarah Berlin at the Saxon Methodist church last Saturday despite the objections of Mr. and Mrs. Berlin, whose religion forbids the marriage of one of their cult to a gentile. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Robbins returned to Spartanburg and Mrs. Robbins visited her mother. Robbins has not been permitted to see Mrs. Robbins since and alleges that Berlin has spirited her away.

The four Florida state banks which closed were the Citizens' Bank of Eustis, Bank of Mount Dora, Bank of State Bank, and the Bank of Umatilla, each of which, through notices posted on their doors, announced they were "closing temporarily" for the protection of their depositors.

Governor Issues Statement.

Bank Superintendent Bennett said Thursday that in many cases, reported Tuesday and Wednesday, it was found that there was no necessity of closing banks even temporarily. Mr. Bennett reiterated his statement of Wednesday that Georgia banks are in cleaner and sounder condition than at any time since 1920.

Governor Clifford Walker issued a short statement in which he said there was no danger of serious effects arising from the closing of a number of the chain banks. The governor made a close examination of the situation and was reassured to the extent that he left on a two weeks' vacation late Thursday.

Mr. Bennett's statement follows:

"The atmosphere is clearing. While several additional banks closed their doors Thursday, the number is very small and the situation is improving. There are several encouraging signs. One bank which closed yesterday wired this morning to disregard the notice, as it found that it was able to carry on its business. Another, reported as closed, advised that it had effected a consolidation with a neighbor bank."

Later this week organized recreational features will get underway, track events, prize drill programs and other events will be arranged. Medals are offered each year for various events of this nature and keenest rivalry exists among companies. Instructors are judges of events in which drills and military contests are staged.

WIFE SPIRITED AWAY

South Carolina Man Seeks Mate.

Spartanburg, S. C., July 15.—(P)—Habeas corpus proceedings have been instituted here by Lloyd Robbins, 21, against Mr. and Mrs. B. Berlin for the return of his wife, who, it is claimed, the parents have spirited away and will not permit to see him.

Robbins married Miss Sarah Berlin at the Saxon Methodist church last Saturday despite the objections of Mr. and Mrs. Berlin, whose religion forbids the marriage of one of their cult to a gentile. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Robbins returned to Spartanburg and Mrs. Robbins visited her mother. Robbins has not been permitted to see Mrs. Robbins since and alleges that Berlin has spirited her away.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

INSTALLMENT XIX.

JOHN TELLS HIS STORY.

He was a very surprised procurator fiscal when John smiled, and promptly interrupted him.

"That is for you to decide," came the emphatic declaration. "There are those who believe, and I have come to agree with them, that my cousin conspired with this wretched fellow, Connington, to bring about my downfall. I had gone through four years of the war, and had quite a number of miraculous escapes to my credit. I ought to have been killed a score of times. I've had my shoulder straps ripped off, my cap pierced, and my binoculars smashed by bullets, but they never broke my skin. I was dug out twice from holes made by big shells. I've been reading trench orders to a corporal and a couple of privates when a whizz-bang came across and outed the other poor chaps, leaving me untouched. I'm not telling you this, Mr. Wingwall, by way of boasting but because of a certain reputation I bore in the regiment for getting into and out of tight places. Alistair knew of this legend, which I should be the last man living to call a stupid one. I'm sure it kept me from worrying many a time when the outlook was black. It's a hard thing to say, but it really does seem as though he feared that his reversion to the title and estates wasn't going to be worth much, so he tried to make sure. I ought to have been shot for the crime he and Connington, between them, caused me to commit. Well, I wasn't. I am assured that my earlier record alone saved me. But I've gone through something like hell since I was court-martialed and dismissed from the service, and I don't care two straws now whether the truth begins to appear during your inquest or as the result of such steps as my very good friends advise me to take. The whole miserable business must be raked up again, I suppose. What does it matter to me when the revelation comes, or how?"

John's face was set and hard. His mind had gone back to the long days of exile. Quite unconsciously, he had relapsed into his habit of quoting Shakespeare. He hardly realized that the measured words had passed his lips. He was thinking, too, of the faithful companion of his later years in the northwest, and wondering what had become of him. Dingwall murmured something, but the younger man paid no heed. "I am sorry if I have intruded a personal matter into your official investigation," he said, rising and going to a window from which he drew the blind so that he might peer out into the night. "Somewhere out there is one of two faithful souls who loved me when I was an outcast. They love me now that I am no longer poor and have bright prospects of regaining my good name. One is a woman, the other is only a dog, yet if my dog does not return alive and uninjured his loss will nearly break my heart."

For a moment there was tense silence in the room. The lawyer was moved, though he hardly knew why. His glance fell again on a passage in Eileen's letter:

"If you see why I hate to have you even write to me as other than the girl you have always written to—well, that should explain much."

It certainly did explain everything. It did not need that she, Alistair's wife, should sign herself "Eileen Grant" to make clear her loathing of the cruel deceit she had spoken of earlier. "One is a woman!" Mr. Dingwall thought he might well close down on that branch of the inquiry. So he rose, too.

"I am obliged to you for having been so candid, Mr. Pantan," he said. "It will help materially. Sometimes we lawyers are thankful to be told what to avoid. I imagine I shall never have a better instance than the present one. Of course, your evidence tomorrow will be essential. May I suggest that you allow me to question you, and that your answers shall not go outside the scope of my questions in any respect?"

John turned, and looked at him fixedly.

"You are being very kind," he said. "What puzzles me now is that every one I come in contact with is so considerate and anxious to help. Why could not some such God-given spirit have made itself felt in the supreme crisis of my life. Then I was left to fend for myself, and did it very badly. Now, when I am eager to fight, I find friends in the most unexpected quarters."

A knock on the door heralded the appearance of Lord Oban, Langling, Frensham and Furneaux.

"We were told you were here, John," said his lordship cheerfully. "If Mr. Dingwall's inquiry is ended perhaps you will both come to the drawing room. Lady Lansing and Betty want you there."

It was amazing how he had changed in a few hours. The excitement of the previous day and night had made him look frailer than ever, yet here he was carrying himself with the air of a man who had found the elixir of youth and was shedding the years with the passing minutes.

John was so struck by the alteration in his father that, for the moment, he hardly realized the omission of Eileen's name. Then, since the men had evidently congregated in the hall or billiard room, he missed Colonel Grant.

"Eileen isn't too ill to show up tonight?" he asked quickly.

"No. She crossed the loch with her father this afternoon. I have no doubt she left a message with Betty. But, in any case, none of us would persuade her to stay. My own notion is that she and Grant will return when—when all this present turmoil is ended."

The underlying cause of Eileen's sudden flight was quite obvious. Her position in Inverlochle was intolerable. After being married to a man whom she had defiantly refused to regard as a husband she was now, in the eyes of the outer world, an inconsolable widow. In the hours of supposed grief at Alistair's loss her heart was literally aching with joy because of her lover's nearness. No wonder, therefore, that she sought the seclusion of her own old home.

John admitted the force of these considerations, yet found them irksome. There seemed to be always some perfectly good reason why he and Eileen should be separated. He sighed whimsically.

"I have hardly set eyes on Betty," he said, "and Lady Lansing I have not seen at all. What about it, Mr. Dingwall? Anything else you want to know? Don't worry about speaking out in front of my father and my friends. I have nothing to conceal."

"I don't think we need say another word about the affair tonight, Mr. Pantan," said the lawyer.

"Excuse me one moment," put in Furneaux. "Do I understand, sir, that you are the procurator fiscal?"

"Yes."

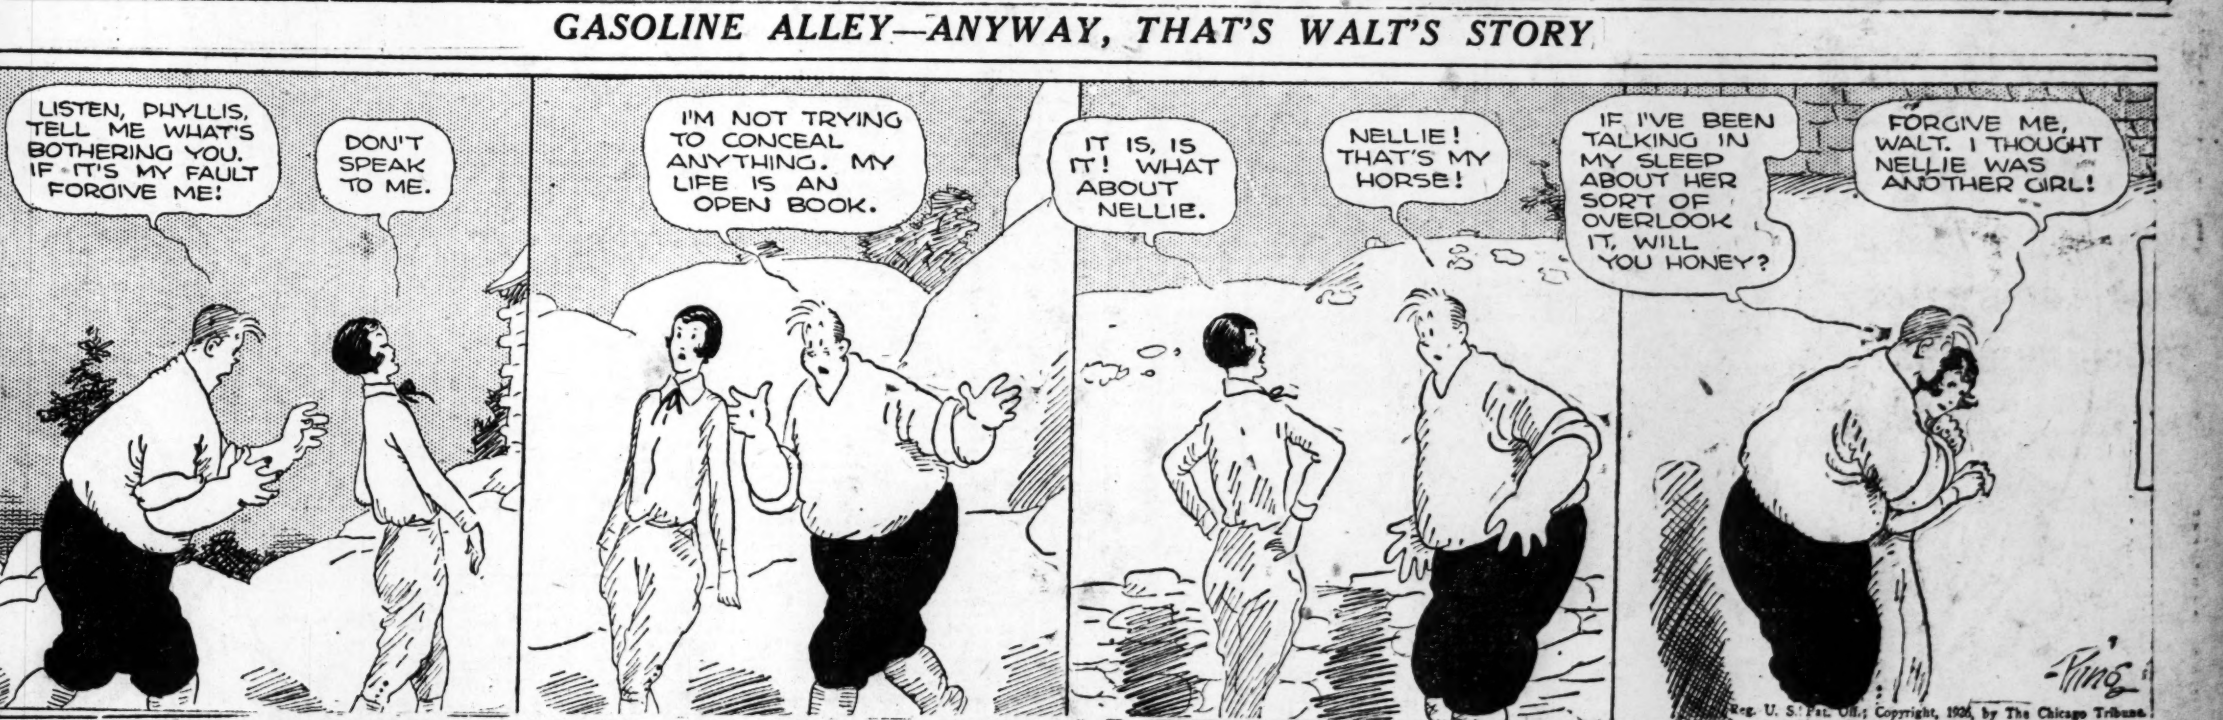

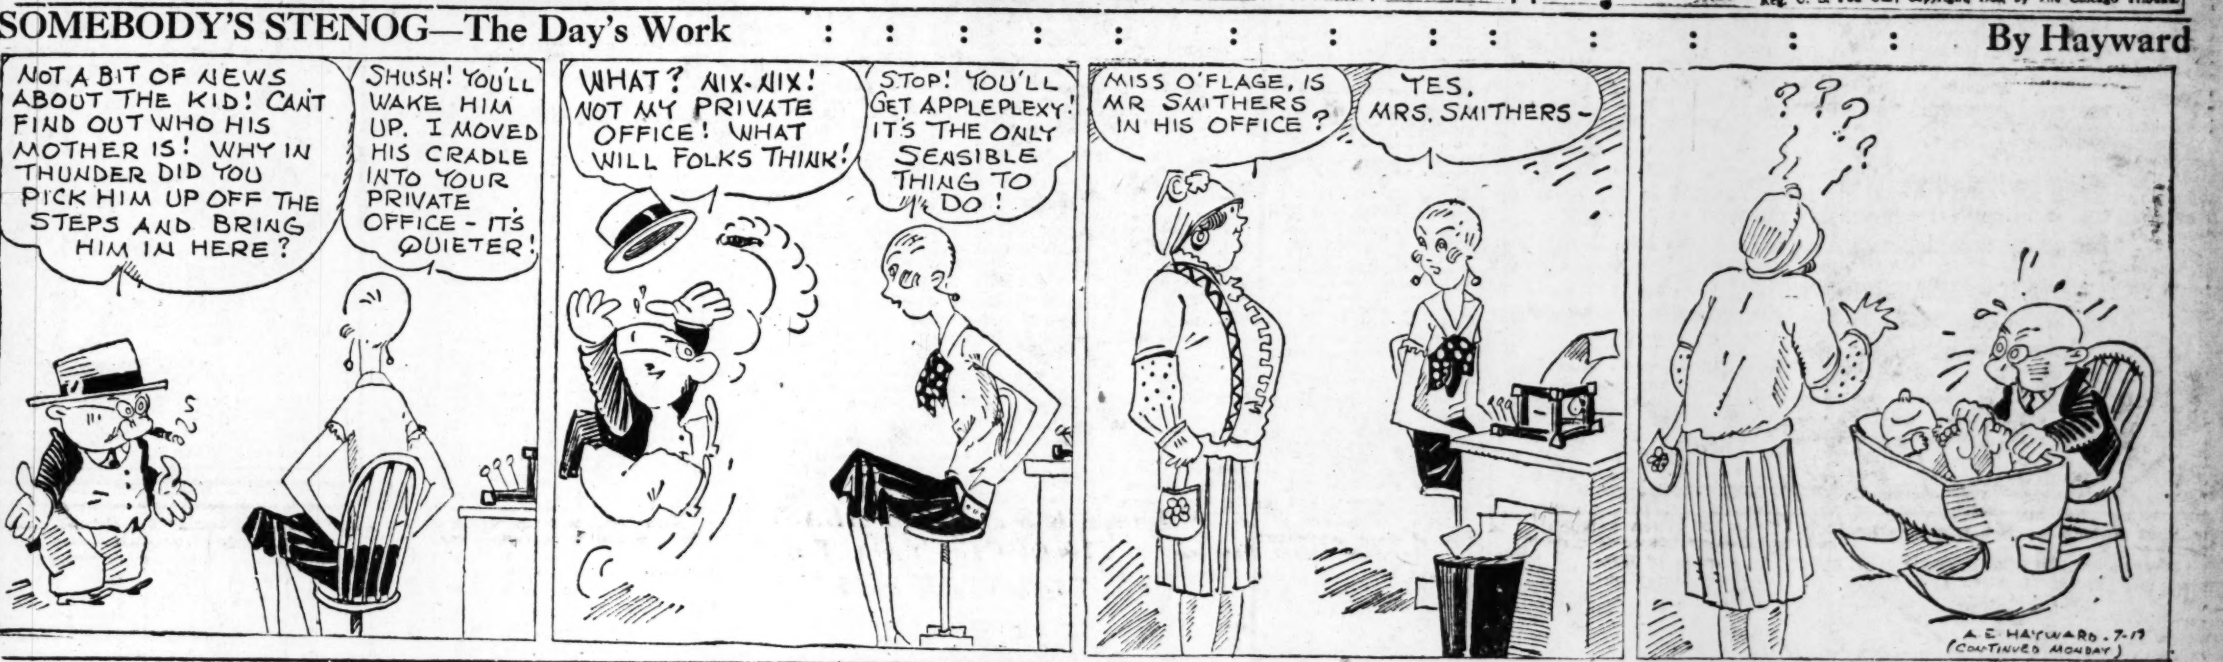

"Ah! This is most interesting. I have never before met one in the flesh, though he is a personage often encountered in Scottish history and fiction. When you have a minute to spare you must tell me how your title came in being."

Dingwall, having heard already something as to Furneaux's peculiarities, suspected this suave address. It might be an instance of the gentle art of leg pulling. On the other hand, it might not.

"It is an ancient and honorable office," he said. "It combines many roles which, across the border, are filled by different individuals. If you have ever witnessed a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, 'The Mikado,' you will recall a character known as 'Pooh-Bah.' Well—"

Berlenbach and Delaney Fight for Title Tonight

Steady Downpour Causes Postponement Of Bout on Thursday

50,000 Spectators Watch Steady Rain With Little Hopes of Seeing Big Bout—Fight Will Be Staged Tonight—Great Battle Expected.

BY FRANK TETTY.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 15.—A desolate, dripping, rain-drenched expanse of yellow pine seats, row on row, stretching away in every direction from a soggy square of gray canvas to the gaunt gray walls and steel stands of Ebbets' field, was all that remained Thursday evening of what was to have been the scene of the Berlenbach-Delaney fight.

Here and there, like wreaths in the lightly falling rain and fading twilight, moved the figures of watchmen—the only human beings where nearly 50,000 had expected to see a fight. The promoter of the light-heavyweight championship fight, changed to a steady drizzle by dusk, and the bout had to be postponed until Friday night.

With champion and challenger keyed to fighting pitch—nerves on edge, bodies tuned to take and deliver the maximum of punishment—the effect of the postponement is not easy to estimate.

It may help Berlenbach, who weighed in on Thursday afternoon at 174 1/2, the promoter of the light-heavyweight championship fight, Delaney tipped the scales in the boxing commission office at 166 1/2, and with a day of rest for both, the debonair challenger may be spotting the titleholder an advantage of ten pounds. Jack Delaney's best fighting weight is usually around 171. It is possible that he was drawn a bit too fine for the battle that was to have taken place Thursday night, and that he will wish the opportunity to add a few pounds in the ensuing 24 hours.

A fine looking pair, the champion and challenger, as they met and stripped for the weighing-in.

Berlenbach, bronzed and clear of eye, with the flesh of his face drawn tightly over his high cheek bones, was on the scales when the Bridgeport boxer pushed his way through the crowd.

They shook hands, cordially it seemed, for two men who were to do their best to batter each other in a few hours. "Best regards," murmured the suave Delaney, glancing aside and smiling. "You look fine, Jack," lisped Pat in his peculiar high-pitched voice.

Police details were required to clear the streets around the Flatiron building. Delaney's progress down from New Rochelle in his new, glistening automobile, was like that of a con- quering hero.

The notice that the bout was postponed came so late that thousands of fans went to Ebbets' field and were turned back by police.

Thousands of counterfeit tickets were abroad, and many fans were deceived. The postponement cost Fugazy, the promoter, about $30,000, he estimated.

Atlanta Moundsmen Are Clouted Often As Travelers Win

Niehaus' Home Run in Fourth Gives Crackers Brief Lead—Niehoff Uses Three Pitchers To Stem Tide.

Little Rock, Ark., July 15.—(Special).—The Travelers today socked the Crackers on the other ear and made it two straight games over the champions of 1925. The score was 6 to 3. The Travelers today did most of their socking off the left-handed "Pug" Cavet, who got enough in six innings and retired to let Tom Rogers bat for him. Love, right-hander, finished the game and gave up two hits and a run in two innings.

Manager Joe Cantillon sent another southpaw after the Crackers and Bob Burke brought home the victory. Bob made quite a mistake pitching to Albert Niehaus in the fourth inning and for half an inning was in danger of losing his ball game for whatever it was that he pitched to Al was just home runs, Niehaus; sacrifices, Clancy, Sengstock; left on bases, Little Rock, 3; Atlanta, 3; double plays, Haas to Niehaus, Niehoff to Durocher; hits, off Cavet, 11 in 6 innings; struck out, by Burke, 2; by Cavet, 1; bases on balls, off Cavet, 2; off Love, 1; balk, by Niehoff, 1; losing pitcher, Cavet. Time, 1:46. Umpires, Guthrie and Clark.

Had Good Breaks.

While the Travelers hammered the ball right merrily it must be admitted that they enjoyed some very favorable breaks and got a few of their blows on bad hops over and away from the infielders. The Crackers raved, and Bert Niehoff tore his hair over the way the ball stopped and jumped about the infield.

Cavet got into trouble right at the start. He gave Senne a base on balls and when Blackburn grounded to Durocher and the Cracker shortstop fumbled, there were two on. Mulvey rolled a bunt down the third base line that went for a hit when the ball got by Gilbert. With the bases full Payner lined a single to center that scored Senne and Blackburn. Mulvey tried to reach third on the hit and was thrown out by Haas. Clancy hit a fly to Haas, whose throw to first doubled Payner before he could get back.

The Travelers held that lead until the fourth. Griffith singled to right. Brock hit a slow one down the third base line that Payner fielded cleanly, but in hurrying his throw to first pulled Clancy off the bag and Brock was safe. Good hit to Clancy whose throw to Blair forced Brock at second. Niehaus then hit his home run, scoring three runs and giving Atlanta the lead.

The Travelers also scored three in their half of the fourth. Mulvey led off with a single to left. Payner singled between third and short and both runners advanced on Clancy's sacrifice. Watson drove in two runs with a slashing single through short. Blair died out but Sengstock singled to right and Burke bounced a single over Cavet's head. Watson scoring. Senne also got a hit on a high bounce over the box and the bases were full but Gilbert made a phenomenal stop of Blackburn's hard hit ground ball and threw "Lena" out at first.

A single by Durocher in the fifth was the last hit the Crackers got off Burke.

Little Rock got two singles and a base on balls off Cavet in the fifth but failed to score. They didn't hit again until the eighth when they made a run off Love. With one out in the eighth, Watson bounced a single over the box. Blair lined a double to right center. Sengstock drove Good deep into right field for his fly ball and Watson came in after the catch.

If you could see inside your manifold—TEXACO dry gas would show no wet pockets

DRY GAS

Equalizes Cylinder Distribution

The NEW and BETTER TEXACO GASOLINE has at last overcome one of the most important causes of power waste and sluggish action in the modern automotive engine. Texaco vaporizes at a much lower temperature than other gasolines. It is a dry gas.

Wet gas collects in drops, forming pockets of liquid gasoline at every bend of the manifold, which unnecessarily enrich the end cylinders. Dry gas goes through the manifold as a vapor. Each cylinder gets an equal mixture, and an equal chance. The better motor performance is immediate and apparent. You will notice the livelier engine, quicker pick-up and increased mileage—and an entirely new freedom from fouled spark plugs.

This new gasoline is the ideal motor fuel. The tests indicate it. A trial will prove it.

A COMPARISON OF DISTILLATION CHARACTERISTICS
	U. S. Gov't. Spec.	Average of 1049 Gasoline Samples	TEXACO Average Tests
Initial	131°	114°	89°	Column 1—United States Government distillation specifications.
20%	221°	208°	187°	Column 2—Average distillation tests taken from a survey of gasoline sold to motorists in cities in all sections of the United States during Sept., 1925.
50%	284°	277°	260°	Column 3—The new and better Texaco Gasoline. Note the superiority at every point.
90%	392°	378°	355°
End	437°	431°	396°

Notice the low boiling point; better than government requirements, better than the average of the finest gasolines on the market today. The new low boiling point provides a "high test" gasoline of greater initial volatility; and hence An Easier Start. And notice the new low end point, 41 degrees better than the government figure.

The new low end point promotes complete combustion with no heavy ends; hence Less Crankcase Dilution, Better Lubrication and Better Compression.

THE TEXAS COMPANY, U. S. A., Texaco Petroleum Products

The new and better Texaco is a pure, highly refined gasoline. It contains no chemicals or poisons.

Stop at the first Texaco pump you see. All tanks and pumps are now supplied with the new product. Fill with Texaco Gasoline; and Texaco Motor Oil, the clean, clear, golden oil; known everywhere for its quality, full body and purity. You will note with pleasure the improved operation and condition of your engine.

A NEW and BETTER
TEXACO
GASOLINE

The Texaco Pump has a new meaning. Better motor results—unmistakably better.

Miss Smith Weds Mr. Henderson At Lovely Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Lucia Smith and Thomas Henderson was solemnized Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. L. Barrett, Jr., at her home on Euclid avenue, the occasion marked by unusual beauty and dignity. The Rev. Dr. Wallace Rogers, pastor of Trinity church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

Preceding the marriage service, Mrs. Lewis Barrett sang two appropriate solos accompanied by Mrs. Charles F. Heard, of Forsyth, Ga., who also played the wedding march at the entrance of the bridal party.

The ribbon bearers, Miss Dixie Ponder, of Forsyth, and Miss Mildred Coleman entered first, bearing white satin ribbons which marked the aisle for the bride. They wore attractive gowns of pink crepe and wore shoulder bouquets of valley lilies and pink roses.

Miss Marion Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and entered alone. She wore a gown of pink shaded tulle fashioned with bouffant skirt and close-fitting bodice. She carried a bouquet of summer flowers in the pastel shades tied with pink tissue ribbons.

Little Misses Alice and Genevieve Barrett, nieces of the bride, acted as flower girls and preceded the bride. They wore dainty frocks of shell-pink chiffon and carried small baskets of vari-colored flowers.

The lovely young bride entered with her father, Sidney D. Smith, by whom she was given in marriage. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Ed Mumford. The bride wore an exquisite model of white crepe fashioned along simple lines with bouffant skirt and tight-fitting bodice. Fragile lace formed the uneven hem of the bodice. Her bridal veil of tulle was bordered with lace to match that which trimmed the gown, the veil being held to her hair by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a huge bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies in shower effect.

The bridal party stood in front of a long paneled mirror at the far end of the living room, while palms, ferns and anemones were banked on either side of the bride. At intervals, baskets of pink gladioli and pink roses were used in the reception rooms where the guests were received following the marriage service.

Mrs. Sidney Smith, the bride's mother, wore a handsome gown of gray crepe trimmed with lace to match the bride's. Mrs. C. L. Barrett, Jr., the bride's sister, was gowned in peach-colored crepe embroidered in shades to match. During the evening Mr. Henderson and his bride left for Miami, Fla., where they will reside. The bride wore a traveling costume of navy blue crepe trimmed in love-bird green. Her hat was a close-fitting model to match embroidered in this same lovely shade of green.

Kappa Alpha Alumni Honors Officials With Dinner Party

A beautiful event of Thursday evening was the dinner party at the Druid Hills Golf club at which the Atlanta alumni of the Kappa Alpha fraternity entertained, the occasion honoring Bishop Henry J. Mikell, life commander, and general officers of the organization, including: W. B. Crawford, of Orlando, Fla., grand historian; Claude W. Gignoux, of St. Louis, Mo., grand purser; Dr. Horatio Hughes, of Charleston, S. C., editor of the K. A. Journal, and Edward P. Hodges, of Columbia, S. C., chief alumnus.

The guests were seated at a long table placed in the sun room of this fashionable club. A profusion of red roses and magnolias, the colors and flowers of the fraternity, decorated the table, these same lovely blossoms adorning the side walls of the room. Henry Heinz, president of the Atlanta alumni, presided over the dinner, introducing the honor guests and local officers.

SLAMS SALAAMS

By Louise Dooker

THIS is the season, when, if you are a woman, and went to Paris last year, you are putting into practice all those pointers your Paris dressmaker gave you about packing your clothes so that when you get to your summer destination, they won't be crushed.

This is the season, too, when, if you are a man, and went to Paris last year, you are having to hear your wife fuss when you get to your summer destination, about how much more wrinkled her clothes are than they ever were before.

"And I folded them just as she said," your wife wails.

Unsympathetically you murmur: "You must have missed a trick somewhere," while you shake out your golf clothes, which you had rolled into a ball as usual and dumped into your suitcase, according to your method of packing, and found them as guileless of wrinkles as if they had just been pressed.

Such is this world's unfair distribution of rewards.

AND speaking of women and their worries, there is my gentle friend who cannot see why the law has to be called in to close up night clubs at a reasonable hour in the morning. "How," she wonders, "can anybody keep awake in them until 2 or 3 o'clock? I had a wild desire once to see what a night club was like, and at last the chance for such abandoned adventure came to me. Well, I have never seen such a stupid gathering. At the table nearest me the talk was a controversy about the work of the Y. M. C. A. in France during the war, and just what Christian science teaches about the absent treatment."

THE woman of today, whose husband makes ten thousand a year, dresses, it has been said, as expensively as the wife of the millionaire. Perhaps that is why the Queen of England at the third court this season, wore the great Kohinoor diamond. No handsome were the costumes of the women presented at the first two courts that her majesty at the third had to do something extraordinary, so they say, not to be outshone.

IT is certainly not Lady Astor one would pick out to typify the old-fashioned woman.

And yet she made some very old-fashioned remarks when she was asked to address recently the women members of parliament, a group before whom she could certainly speak as freely and as independently as before any group in the world.

What women do in public life is not half as important as what they do out of it, she asserted.

"I look on the evolution of the woman as spiritual progress. . . . To get the vote not for the vote's sake, but to use it for the great social movements seems to me essential. . . . I have never taken a great interest in growing-up people very often do not want to change. If they want to go to the devil, let them go; it is their own fault. But when I hear women en talk so much about the way they are going to change the world, I know we have got to get a better ideal and conception in the thinking of our children. We have got to get the children to value spiritual things more than material. . . .

"A MAN said to me the other day: 'You women are talking a great deal about an equal standard of morality; why don't you try for an equal standard of modesty?' Well that is true. . . .

Again—"There is a great deal in women that is keeping the world back. If we want better plays and better films—I mean better moral conditions—we have got to work for that, because after all, it is the moral outlook of the country that counts in the end. It is not social status. The moral outlook of the country depends solely on the women."

"I have noticed lately that there is a sort of looseness going about. I think it is temporary and just a transition. But if it takes hold, and if we look on civilization will go down, because chastity is the cement of civilization. . . . In thinking of the many things before us, do not let us ever lose sight of the essential."

"We have come into the world's political arena because the world needs us. But we will do no good to it until we put into it what has made us in private life."

ANOTHER woman whose "old-fashioned" views I like to read is Katherine Fullerton Gerould. I have been sincerely shocked of late to hear women say, when they read Sherwood Anderson's "Dark Laughter," that they were not shocked. And so I was intensely pleased, when Mrs. Gerould in her article in Harper's for July, "The Vulgar of Ours," compares Anderson and Sinclair Lewis.

The average American citizen is no doubt in some ways vulgar, she says, as is the average citizen of any country; but this vulgarity has been permeated by a sense of decency. "Our novelists for the last 20 years have tended to select vulgar people to portray and to declare them typical. I myself, admire 'Babbalanza' more than anything else Mr. Sinclair has written. It comes very near to being great satire. I am not able to admire Mr. Sherwood Anderson's accounts of the men he considers average citizens—'and here is the gem of her comparison: 'One has known the people of the circus satirizing. One has not known the people Mr. Anderson is sentimentalizing.'"

I AM in the midst of T. L. Stribling's "Teeftallow." Indisputably, when he wrote this story of the hill people of Tennessee, his pen was steeped in realism, with apparently no love for the types he represents so graphically, and even the pity he feels is the pity that probes.

But the ugly things he reveals are revealed, not for the sake of the ugliness; they are incidental, to prove a condition. Stribling's hero is the victim of the circumstance of ignorance, knowing no standards beyond those of his narrow world.

Not so with Anderson's decadent, of whom the author has made a book that revels in corruption apparently for the sake of the revel.

There is a difference. So much so, that I cannot see why one can afford to be tolerant of such a type as Anderson draws even in literature. As Mrs. Gerould says, "One has not known the people Mr. Anderson is sentimentalizing."

A clean-minded woman—will she not draw her mental skirts aside from contact with corruption?

Miss Taylor Weds Raymond Snead In Greenwood, S. C.

Of great interest to many friends was the marriage of Miss Carolyn Taylor and Raymond Snead, which was solemnized at the English Lutheran church July 14, 1926. The simple and impressive ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mueller Wingard, of Greenwood, S. C.

Before the ceremony Mrs. N. G. Baggett sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. George P. Hardin at the pipe organ.

The bride was beautiful in a dark-blue traveling gown, with accessories to match, carrying a bouquet of roses, valley lilies and orchids. She was accompanied to the altar by her sister, Miss Mary Taylor, who was the bride's only attendant.

Grover Cleveland Cobb, of Atlanta, was best man.

The bride is a daughter of Professor and Mrs. John Taylor, of Whiteburg, and the groom is a prominent young Atlanta business man. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a trip to the mountains of Tennessee, and will be at home to their friends at 231 St. Charles avenue after July 25.

Little Miss Woodland Is Honor Guest.

Captain and Mrs. John C. Social Activities Capital City Roof

Featured at 122 Infantry Encampment

Continues Popular Place in Society

Camp Hammond, Tybee Island, Ga., July 14.—Many delightful social activities are being featured at the annual encampment of "Atlanta's Own" 122nd infantry. Thursday night officers of the North Georgia regiment were hosts at a dance at the Tybee hotel to officers of the 118th Field artillery, the Georgia Hussars, Brigadier General Travis and staff members, all of Savannah, and city officials of Savannah and Tybee.

During next week the Gate City Guard will give its annual dance, followed by dances of officers of the 122nd regiment and non-commissioned officers of the outfit.

The dance Thursday night in honor of the Savannah national guard officers was a brilliant and delightful event, with all the splendor of military affairs. The Tybee hotel pavilion was appropriately decorated and arranged, and a Savannah orchestra furnished the music.

Wives of a number of officers accompanied their husbands to Tybee this year and are enjoying bridge parties, swimming and other small affairs. Mrs. Charles H. Cox, wife of the commanding officer, Major Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., wife of the executive officer, Mrs. Charles Shaw, wife of the adjutant of the first battalion, and others are seen frequently about the bench.

Mrs. Hewitt Honors Mrs. Ben Wellons.

Marietta, Ga., July 15.—Mrs. Stratford Hewitt was hostess at a bridge party Wednesday in compliment to Mrs. Ben Wellons, Jr., formerly Miss Patricia Stuart Barbour.

A silver dish was the gift presented to the guest of honor. The prize was a cut-glass water bottle and glass and silver tea strainer, were won by Mrs. Frank McNeil and Miss Davies, Misses Emma Reaves, Dudley Hewitt, Anna Goodman and Polly Wellons, assisted in serving punch. Those invited were Mesdames Ben Wellons, Jr., Mrs. N. W. Walter, Mrs. J. W. McNagay, of Grand Rapids; Frank McNeil, W. K. Boardman, of North Carolina; Charles Brown, Herbert Wallace, Charles Timon, Misses Charlotte Low, Gretchen Davis, Lois Gardner, Sadie Sibley.

Miss Nancy Foster, of Madison, Ga., is the guest of Mrs. R. M. Wordo on Church street.

W. M. Murray entertained a congenial group of his friends at a swimming party on Tuesday afternoon at the Marietta Golf club.

Misses Ruth and Ruby Webb will spend this week-end in Birmingham, Ala., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lee.

A swimming party was given by Mrs. Herbert Davis as hostess on Monday evening at the Marietta Golf club, in compliment to her guest, Miss Marguerite Emmons, of Jackson, Mich. After the swim party repaired to the clubrooms, where a buffet supper was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge and dancing.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown, of Atlanta, who formally resided here, will be interested to know that they will return to Marietta to live after August 1.

Mrs. J. A. Williams left Monday for an extended visit to Los Angeles, Cal., and other western points.

Miss Mary Latimer, of Woodstock, Ga., is the guest of Miss Evelyn Latimer, on Church street.

Robert Benson and George Mitchell Morris, of Tampa, Fla., are visiting their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosser Little and children have returned from a tour of several weeks through the western states.

Mrs. John H. Crouch and children have returned from a visit of several days to relatives in Dawson, Ga.

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Early declines in the cotton market today promoted by prospects of clearing weather were followed by rallies on complaints of unseasonably low temperatures and continued insect activity. December contracts sold up from 17.14 to 17.41, but reacted later, closing at 17.30, compared with 17.20 at the close yesterday. The general market closed steady, net 2 points lower to 3 point higher.

The opening was easy at a decline of 11 to 10 points. The early selling movement sent prices off to about 17.14 for October and 17.18 for January, or 15 to 10 points net lower on more active positions. Much of the pressure was attributed to liquidation of old long contracts inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables and the better weather outlook. Offerings tapered off at the decline as it liquidation inspired by the early news had run its course, and the market steadied during the middle of the day. The report on insect activities issued yesterday by the government entomologists, and detailed records of the weather bureau showing unseasonably low night temperatures over the greater part of the belt.

The forecast for clearing weather was considered favorable, but the bullish theory was that decidedly higher temperatures as well as clear weather were wanted to check the activity of insects and to make the plant put on fruit. October sold up from 17.14 to 17.40 and January advanced to 17.42, but reacted later, while there was a considerable demand for December which was believed to be for Wall Street account.

Demand slackened as prices worked up toward the 17.2-cent level for early new crop deliveries, however, and last prices showed reactions of 8 to 12 points from the best.

A private report made the condition of the crop 74.2 and the indicated yield 15,000,000 bales, compared with an estimated condition of 77.4 and yield of 15,500,000 bales two weeks ago.

Exports for the day were 1,210, making 7,093,168 so far this season. Port receipts 6,043. United States port stocks 607,305.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Cotton spot steady, middling, 18.55.

TREND UPWARD AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., July 15.—(AP)—The cotton market was moderately active today and the general trend of prices was upward although the market was steady, showing net gains for the day of 7 to 13 points.

A private bureau made the condition average for the mid-month 74.2 against 74.4 two weeks ago and made the indicated crop 15,000,000 bales.

Liverpool came in 6 to 11 penny points better than the afternoon prices, but the market nevertheless opened 6 to 9 points down and declined a little further in the early trading until October traded at 16.91 and December at 16.85, and January at 16.84, or 9 to 10 points under yesterday's close. These levels proved to be the lows of the day.

The market rallied on crop damage reports and the upturn was not checked until October traded at 17.20, December at 17.11 and January at 17.08, or 24 to 29 points above the previous close. Prices eased off 9 to 10 points in the later trading on reports of a slight decline in exports for the day totaled 1,210 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, July 15.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, 13 points up, 75.1; mid-middling, 14.95; middling, 18.20; good middling, 18.85; receipts 1,042; stock, 171,901.

Onyx Hosiery Dividend.

New York, July 15.—(AP)—Directors of the Onyx Hosiery company today placed the common stock on an annual dividend basis of $3.20 a share by the declaration of an initial quarterly payment of 80 cents. The first dividend will be distributed August 5 to stockholders of record July 25.

A scappin' fool!

From Nogales to Oklahoma he blazed a trail of adventure—from one state to another he carried the name of a scappin' fool—a flash boy who craved action—made like a streak and fought like a demon—

Atlanta Theater.

"Robin Hood," with Mary Lella Paterson, scenic, atmospheric, and musical production, with the band of the Atlanta Theater.

"The Pirates of Penzance," in eight pleasing performances of delicately whimsical humor, will be given next week with Louise Hunter and Louis Armstrong in the leading parts. Seats for this production started yesterday.

Coming Soon.

In the near future brides will be trading up to the latest wedding gowns of various shades and hues. Adrian, famous costume designer for the Cecil B. DeMille studio, has his new "The Pirates of Penzance," an attractive girl submit to the conventionality of a white wedding gown if it doesn't go well with her color. "The Pirates of Penzance," an attractive girl submit to the conventionality of a white wedding gown if it doesn't go well with her color.

The Rialto.

Paramount's latest production of "Zane Grey novel, 'Born to the West' at the Rialto theater this week. Advance notices proclaim it to be one of the best of this company's series of similar films. Certainly, the picture is a masterpiece of the genre. We find Jack Holt, the hero; Margaret Morris, 'the girl'; Raymond Hatton in a comedy role; Arthur Lester in a supporting part; and George Siegman playing a 'heavy' as only he can. The comedy is Hal Rosch's 'Laughing Ladies'.

The Howard.

Maria Prevost, star of Al Christie's production of the famous stage success, 'Up in Mabel's Room' at the Howard theater, follows a long line of stage stars who played the role of Mabel.

Doubtless many comparisons will be made between the movie and the play, and the original stage production. Appearing in support of Maria Prevost are Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver, Harry May and others.

Loew's Grand.

Ten dancers of marvelous ability appear in the big dance act of Rose and the Loew's Grand theater this week. All kinds of dancing of the best type are shown and the work is done in an attractive and entertaining manner.

The Metropolitan.

"The Desert Healer," a novel by the talented E. M. Hull, is the screen feature at the Metropolitan theater this week. The picture follows the career of a man who is a doctor and a hero.

Lakewood Park.

"Felix in Blunderland," the funniest Felix the Cat comedy made up to date, adds the laugh interest to the motion picture program at Lakewood Amusement park tonight. William Hutchinson stars in 'The Hidden Menace,' the thrilling feature film.

The Forsyth.

Something about golf and a good deal about love, together with a dazzling array of dancing and singing talent go to make up 'Top Hole,' the delightful musical comedy at the Forsyth. The story is a funny and most interesting one and in addition the play has a number of good songs. Altogether, it is a most attractive production.

Tudor Theater.

"Bill was a fool about orphans, when he thought he was a hero," is a good description of the hard-fighting, lovable Art Acord, who stars in 'The Scrapper Kid,' a fast-moving, first-run western, which opened on Thursday for a run of three days at the Tudor theater.

"The Scrapper Kid" is the story of a young man with domestic ties. He has a whole flock of orphans, or-

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, July 15.—Profit-taking in the early trading made the price movement in the stock market irregular. However, the heavy selling pressure developed. In the late trading when call money dropped from the opening rate of 4 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent, there was some recovery in prices.

While the stock market had grown active on the rise under the leadership of United States Steel and General Motors, and hence was ready to settle for a setback, news of the failure of 40 state chain banks in Georgia, including the Georgia Trust and Savings company, of Atlanta, had an unfavorable influence on sentiment. This trouble now coming to the surface has long been a source of concern, and no serious results are expected either in general trade or in the stock market directly affected or in the stock market.

The 121 banks in Georgia and Florida in the chain having headquarters in Atlanta, had been operating since before the beginning of the Federal reserve system in 1914. As Wall Street bankers understand the situation, money was being drawn out of the chain banks and sent to Georgia banks. When small Florida banks began to fail some months ago because the peak of Florida real estate speculation had been reached and passed, the Florida banks began to call on the Georgia banks for funds. It was this calling of deposits that brought about the situation resulting in today's news.

Another development in the day's news having an unfavorable influence on sentiment was the report from Washington that the federal trade commission would, on September 15, commence an investigation of all of the large corporations for antitrust violations in the last four years. During this period there have been many mergers and combinations of corporations in copper, oil and public utilities.

A day or two ago Secretary Mellon expressed his opinion that the June earnings season to be published in the last few days of the month would be beneficial to the public unless the result had been the creation of phantom profits, orphan calves, orphan dogs, and then comes along a very attractive young lady with a brother and small sister, who are orphans, and the orphan, decides that the proper thing is to adopt them.

When the objections voiced when he attempts to keep the young lady with him, especially after it is learned that she is 18 instead of 12, the orphan, decides that the proper thing is to adopt them.

Harvester King Accused of Robbing Harem Beauty

HUSBAND WANTS MISSING JEWELS

New York, July 15.—A chapter, which might have come out of the Arabian Nights, involving a kidnapping of a harem girl, the theft of rare jewels, threats also to involve Harold F. McCormick, head of the International Harvester company, if the missing story spun in a New York law firm, is upheld.

The story is told, not by Queen Sheherazade, but by Goldstein and Goldstein, attorneys. It is to the effect that the harvester king is shortly to be called upon to account for the jewels and the missing girl, a young Turkish girl who is alleged to have lived in McCormick's Chicago home until a short time before her death last spring.

Sidney Berman, husband of the late Carmela Berman, has obtained a summons against the well-known millionaire, demanding an accounting of the personal property consisting of stocks and bonds of the International Harvester company, trunks and luggage at No. 1000 Lake shore drive, Chicago (McCormick's home); deeds and title papers to lands in Turkey and jewelry, as well as bonds of a Spanish steamship line.

A hearing has been set for October 19. Goldstein cocked his feet on his glass-topped desk and told the story with unctuous.

The late Mrs. Berman, he said, was the daughter of Mohammed VI, sultan of Turkey, and a woman of Spanish and French descent who had been kidnapped and forced into Mohammed's harem.

Distinguished for her beauty, she was known as Carmela Sylvano and was the heart and hand of Enver Pasha in his former days of war in the Turkish government.

Before Carmela's mother was stolen from her Spanish home to become a favorite of Mohammed VI, Enver Pasha continued, she had made the acquaintance of Harold F. McCormick. Before the mother died, she gave her daughter to Enver Pasha, and she and advised her to go to America and seek the harvester king. Just where Enver Pasha passed out of the picture, Goldstein said, was not certain, but he said that Carmela came to this country and sought McCormick.

The millionaire was absent from his Chicago home and Carmela took refuge in the Y. W. C. A. When McCormick returned, he took the Turkish harem beauty into his home, according to the story. He also, Carmela's husband alleges in his affidavit, took her money, bonds and jewels for safe-keeping, supplying her with cash and ready cash she needed.

More than 200 guests were entertained Thursday afternoon at the graduation exercises of the Georgia Training School for Girls, when five girls finished their course.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta's schools, gave the principal address and stressed the importance of women's work in the world today. Invocation was pronounced by Dr. C. R. Stovetter, pastor of the First Christian church, and certificates of graduation were given to the girls.

White, chairman of the board of directors. A unique playlet, "Hiawatha," was given by the girls, and following the exercises, visitors were shown exhibitions of the girls' work at the school, including sewing, cooking, and other domestic arts.

Prizes were awarded for best work in laundry, cooking, sewing, shorthand and typewriting and garden work. Executives were given cash grants by Joseph W. Atwell, chairman of a special committee from the Business Men's Exchange club.

A large delegation from the evangelistic club visited the school. Among other guests was Mrs. Rebecca Felton, of Carterville, who is a Georgia woman. Mrs. Felton has taken much interest in the development of the school.

DEANS WILL SUIT
WILL BE CARRIED TO HIGHER COURT

An appeal is expected to be filed today of a decision of Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county judge, who ruled that Frank Deans, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was the son of the late Robert E. Deans, a wealthy Atlanta broker and set aside the judgment of probate of the court of ordinary of the Deans' will.

The decision was handed down Wednesday following a three-day hearing on the appeal of the late Robert E. Deans, who was represented by attorneys Robert Alston, J. Monroe Spears and Ed A. Stephens. The executors were represented by attorneys Heiden and W. Arnold and Clarence Calhoun.

Committee Named
To Promote Respect
Of American Flag

Appointment of a flag-respect committee whose duties will be to advocate proper respect for the American flag, featured a meeting at 8 o'clock Wednesday night of the Greater Atlanta club No. 300, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

R. L. Henry was named chairman. Other members of the committee are: R. W. Bergen and Charles A. Moran. The committee was appointed following a report that several large office buildings were not flying the flag on flagpoles which had been erected for that purpose; that it has become noticeable that numerous citizens do not "cover" when the flag passes in parades, and that flags are being used improperly in decorating.

A social committee composed of J. H. Bush, chairman, and J. V. Bergen and Thomas Smith, also was named. Throughout the next few months, meetings of the organization will be held on the first and third Thursday nights of each month, it was announced.

POSE FORBIDDING OF FREACH DEBT

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., July 15.—No histrionics, no drama, no tears were there tonight in the meeting of Russell and Robert Scott, brothers, one sentenced to be hanged, the other to the penitentiary for life—face to face for the first time since that fateful night on April 2, 1924, when guns in hand, they went into a drug store to rob and came out the murderers of Joseph Maurea, a clerk.

It might have been the meeting of two criminals who had left each other casually today, so commonplace was it all. Their attorney, William Russell, had arranged to bring them together for a picture. They met in the foul, chilly corridor of the county jail near the death cell which Russell had secured.

Russell came first to the appointed spot, led out by the guards. He balked a bit when told that the picture was to be taken in the death cell, but he rubbed his face, thick with unshaven hair. As he was still protesting, he suddenly inhaled and he lifted his lowered head.

"Hello, Bob," said Russell, and his voice was even. Both smiled and they looked at each other. "How are you, Bob?" continued Russell.

They stood for a moment talking in low tones. It was plain they were going to be formal before jail guards and newspapermen at least. Finally Russell spoke and he said to Scott: "You are a bit of a fellow, aren't you?"
